Soviet Forces In Stalingrad Pressed Back

Abandon Factory Suburb in Third Withdrawal in Two Days

STUBBORN FIGHTING

Two Companies of Nazis and 200 Rumanians Killed In Northwest

MOSCOW, Oct. 17 (Saturday) (AP). — The Stalingrad garrison "withdrew from one of the city's settlements" Friday under the pressure of thousands of "numerically superior" German shock troops, who were supported by hundreds of tanks and planes in their furious new effort to split the Red Army defenders.

A Friday midnight communique announcing the third Russian withdrawal in two days emphasized the peril to the Volga River city now in its fifty-fourth day of siege, and the retreat apparently meant the Russians had abandoned the factory district of Northern Stalingrad.

"In the Stalingrad area," the bulletin said, "our troops are repulsing furious attacks by numerically superior enemy forces. According to preliminary data during the day we destroyed forty-three German tanks and annihilated about a regiment of enemy infantry."

STUBBORN FIGHTING

"After stubborn fighting our units withdrew from one of the city's settlements."

The Russians said there was only "fighting of local significance"

MOVE CANADIAN WAR PRISONERS

Berlin to Make No Distinction In Nationality in "Reprisals"

LONDON, Oct. 16 (CP).—The Berlin radio, quoting the German High Command, announced tonight that all war prisoners of Germany will be subject to reprisals for any alleged mistreatment of German captives, regardless of the theatre in which they were taken.

Thus British and Canadian prisoners would be made to suffer for any action which the Germans may claim the Russians committed against German prisoners.

Later the German radio said Canadian soldiers captured at Dieppe had been transferred to a new prison camp, but did not say where the camp was.

This was the latest development in a war of nerves which started October 8 when the Germans announced they had shackled 1,376 prisoners—most of them believed to be Canadians—taken at Dieppe.

Britain and Canada retaliated by shackling a like number of Germans in their possession and Britain sought through Switzerland, its protective power, to negotiate an agreement for unshackling on both sides. Canada also is attempting to seek a mutual agreement with the enemy.

So far there has been no announcement of success by the Swiss intermediaries.

Gas Ration Will Be Cut By Quarter

OTTAWA, Oct. 16 (CP).—Motorists in all parts of Canada except the Maritime Provinces will have their gasoline ration cut by one-quarter effective next week, the Munitions and Supply Department announced late today.

After the close of business tomorrow gasoline ration coupons will have a uniform value throughout Canada of three gallons. The three-gallon unit already is in effect in the Maritimes while in other provinces it has been good for the purchase of four gallons.

Oil Controller G. R. Cottrelle, who issued the reduction order, said Canada's inventories of gasoline are dwindling and action was necessary to conserve supplies for essential purposes.

Americans Hit Kiska Hard in Bombing Raids

Many Large Fires Started in Japan's Last Aleutian Foothold

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP).—Raining explosive and incendiary bombs on Kiska, United States Army bombers are pounding the last precarious foothold of the Japanese in the Aleutians without interference from enemy aircraft, the navy announced today.

Many large fires were started by the incendiaries, loosed over the invaders' camp on October 14 by four-engined Consolidated Liberators, following up a raid on October 11 in which the long-range bombers dropped six tons of demolition bombs on the camp.

Canadian flyers are aiding the United States airmen in defence of Alaska and have participated in raids over the Aleutians, but there was no mention in Friday's navy communique that they took part in the latest action.

RESULTS NOT OBSERVED

The results of the earlier raid were not observed, said a navy communique, but the airmen reported success with the incendiaries in the second expedition. They were accompanied by speedy, heavily armed Lockheed Lightning fighter planes, which used their machine guns and thirty-seven millimeter cannon to destroy three enemy seaplanes caught on the water. One of the American fighters, however, was lost, apparently to enemy anti-aircraft fire.

The planes were operating from advanced bases in the Andreanof Group of the Aleutians. The Alaskan Defence Command disclosed today that army troops, operating under navy command, had extended their positions by occupation of another of the Andreanof Islands, in what was described as a "routine operation."

This occupation was accomplished without opposition, said the announcement, and the troops experienced no difficulty in landing. A solitary enemy plane flew over the new position not long after it was occupied, and dropped two bombs, but they caused no casualties.

Hundreds of Bombers in Rhine Raid

LONDON, Oct. 16 (CP).—Britain's biggest bombs fell in crushing weight on Cologne last night from a raiding force of hundreds of great four-motored bombers after the R.A.F. had ignored the blackened Rhineland city in the four and one-half months since it was made the target of history's first thousand-plane raid.

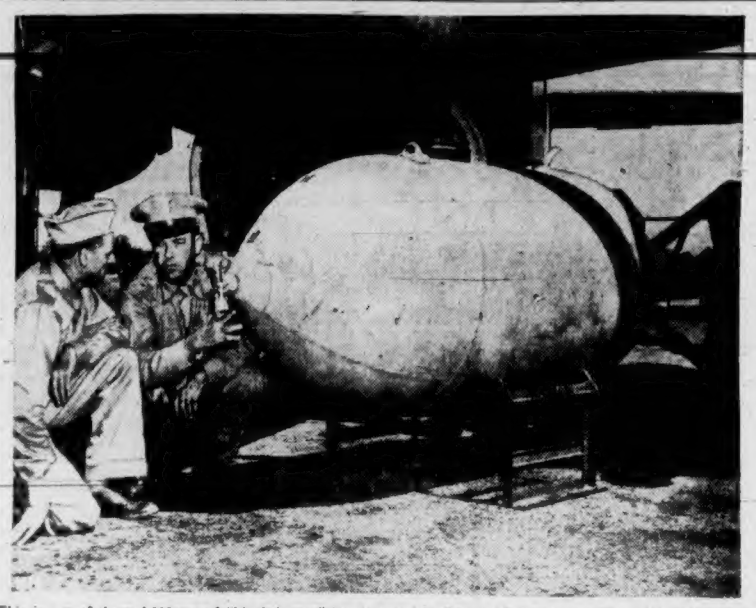
The industrial Rhineland—Germany's "bomb alley"—was the general target of the assault, probably one of the largest against the Nazi homeland in weeks. Four squadrons of Royal Canadian Air Force bombers took part in the attack.

Three Canadian bombers failed to return, R.C.A.F. headquarters announced in a communique.

The communique also reported Canadian fighter aircraft carried out offensive patrols over enemy-occupied territory during the night.

The R.A.F. lost eighteen planes in the night attack.

Inspecting Two-Ton Demolition Bomb



This is one of those 4,000-pound "block buster" bombs, used in Royal Air Force attacks on industrial targets in Europe. The British call these bombs the "block busters," because when they let go there is usually no block where a block existed before. Brig.-Gen. G. M. Barns (left), chief of the technical division of the United States Army Ordnance Department, and Maj.-Gen. L. H. Campbell, Chief of Ordnance, inspect the 4,000-pounder at Aberdeen, Md.

Fighting Started Over Dakar, Nazi Statement Claims

Vichy Announcement Declares French Naval Officer Killed in Combat—American Troops Said To Be Disembarking in Belgian Congo and British Nigeria as Tension Mounts

LONDON, Oct. 17 (CP).—The Vichy radio said tonight that a French naval air officer was killed in combat over West Africa last Sunday, and the Germans prefaced their broadcast of this news with a statement saying "fighting activities have started over Dakar."

Capt. Dailliere, described as a flight officer stationed at the strategic base of Dakar, died in an aerial engagement, and while neither Vichy nor Berlin identified his opponent, their meaning was clear—that a member of the United Nations had shot down the Vichy airman.

Fighting French and British military sources here said "No comment" on the report.

For weeks now the Germans have been warning of an impending Allied attack on Dakar, possibly with the hope of gaining concessions for themselves in Africa, and also no doubt through genuine fear of a possible Allied second front in that area.

DEFENDING "FRENCH UNITY"

Captain Dailler "fell in African skies in defence of the French Empire and of French unity," the Vichy radio said in quoting Vice-Admiral G. A. J. P. Auphand, Secretary of State for the Navy in the Laval Cabinet.

The captain commanded the submarine depot ship Jules Verne before transferring to the air force.

Axis broadcasts in the last few weeks have reported the landing of United States troops on the African coast south of French West Africa as well as the area below it.

One of these German-inspired reports said that both American and British troops were concentrated on the frontier of British Gambia, which is barely 100 miles south of Dakar.

MAJOR BATTLE NEAR IN BURMA

Return of Wavell From Tour Heightens Speculation On Future

NEW DELHI, Oct. 16 (AP).—Extensive reconnaissance into Burma and the strengthening of Allied forces trained in "traveling light and living on the country," heightened speculation here tonight on the prospects of a United Nations offensive to drive the Japanese out of Burma.

The belief that some major operation is pending was heightened by the return of General Sir Archibald Wavell, Commander-in-Chief of India, from a tour of inspection which took him across the Burma frontier.

The general appeared satisfied with what he had seen, and, a spokesman said his journey "was a practical illustration of his recent statement that the reoccupation of Burma now is foremost in his mind."

OTHER INDICATIONS

A favorable turn of the weather and the strengthening of Allied air forces along the Northeast Frontier were other factors leading to a belief that an effort to clean up Burma and reopen the all-important Burma

BULLETINS

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17 (Saturday) (AP).—A terrific explosion shook the Duquesne works of the Continental Roll & Steel Foundry Company early today and Patrolman William Walker reported that at least forty-five persons were injured, many seriously. Residents more than a mile from the scene said their houses were shaken.

Fire spread immediately through the plant, working twenty-four hours a day on vital war materials.

The blast occurred a few minutes after 1 a.m. Saturday.

British Patrol on American Coast

BURBANK, Cal., Oct. 16 (AP).—A battle-scarred squadron of Lockheed Hudson bombers sent to England to raid the Axis has come home—but not for retirement. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. announced today that the squadron—still flown by British crews—is now patroling the American Atlantic coast, rendering these waters as dangerous for enemy U-boats as the closely-guarded United Nations shipping lanes on the European side.

Force Japanese Retreat in Hills Of New Guinea

Allied Air Forces Attack New Naval Concentration Of Enemy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Oct. 17 (Saturday) (CP).—Allied air forces in New Guinea again supported the hard-fighting United States Marines and troops on Guadalcanal by a bombing expedition to Buin, where Washington announced a new Japanese naval concentration had been sighted, Allied Headquarters said today.

A large enemy merchant ship was attacked, but the results were not learned by the crewmen of the offensive reconnaissance unit which delivered the stroke, the communique said. Buin is across the passage from Shortland Island, 260 miles northwest of Guadalcanal.

Meanwhile a headquarters spokesman said Japanese troops defending their positions on the north slope of the Owen Stanley Mountains

Floods Ease In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 16 (AP).—Virginia's worst transportation tie-up in years attributable to floods was eased tonight as he Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad began to move north-south trains which had been delayed nearly twenty-four hours past Fredericksburg.

The waters of the Rappahannock River were receding from that flood-stricken city after touching a crest of about forty-five feet.

Violent Disorders Start In Europe Against Nazis

France, Norway, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Occupied Russia, Croatia and Greece Scenes of Trouble

LONDON, Oct. 16 (AP).—Violent disorders against Nazi repressive measures and brutal reprisals were reported today from many parts of oppressed Europe.

France—French workers were reported in revolt against the Laval Government's conscription of labor for Germany in unoccupied territory. Bombs were thrown, blood flowed and police were called out to quell riots. Lyon, Chambery and Annecy were the trouble centres. Troops occupied railway stations.

Norway—The German submarine building base at Trondheim, site of thirty-four recent executions, was reported by the Moscow radio to have been burned out of commission for a long time. Another report said the Germans had ordered radio sets confiscated from members of Quisling's party in border districts because some Norwegians could not be trusted to tune out "enemy broadcasts." The Quisling Government confined 1,100 clergymen and replaced them with Quislingists. The Norwegians reported seventy Germans killed in the recent R.A.F. bombing in Oslo.

EXECUTE 500 SERBS

Yugoslavia—Balkan sources said the Germans executed 500 Serbs, charged with insurrection. Occupation forces were increased. More than 800 were arrested last night in Belgrade and reported implicated in a widespread revolutionary plot. Turkish reports told of prolonged pitched battles near Sarajevo, birthplace of the First Great War, between Axis forces and patriots

Men of Dieppe

MEN of Dieppe! Under fire, they raised Canada's name as high as it has ever been lifted before the world. To the level of Ypres. Ambushed, they attacked. Wounded, they charged at the point of the bayonet. One won the Victoria Cross. Many of the men of Dieppe died—with their faces still to the foe. There is the measure of sacrifice for each individual in this land. It is high indeed.

At home, we must match that, no matter what our personal inconveniences. But let us not call that sacrifice. It is our duty, our responsibility, our pledge, perhaps, to other Canadians who will one day stand—not at Dieppe—but in the last trench for us, and for human freedom. On October 19, in Canada's Third Victory Loan, Vancouver Island is asked to raise $12,750,000. Will you help?

Enemy Submarine Brings Death to 137 in Sinking Of Atlantic Ferry Ship

Men, Women and Children Perish While Asleep in Staterooms as Civilian Vessel Torn Apart by Torpedo—Servicemen Among Victims—Was Near Newfoundland Destination

Five of One Family Die

SYDNEY, N.S., Oct. 16 (CP).—Torpedoed in darkness, the Newfoundland-Nova Scotia ferry steamship Caribou was sunk in Cabot Strait on October 14 with the presumed loss of 137 lives in the greatest announced marine disaster of this war in the coastal waters fringing on Canada.

Canadian naval craft saved 101 passengers and crewmen after the 2,200-ton vessel, owned by the Newfoundland Government, had been sent to the bottom by a submarine that surfaced after the kill and watched the finish of the Caribou and the struggles of her survivors in the predawn gloom.

The sinking raised to 494 The Associated Press count of announced Allied ship losses in the Western Atlantic since December 7, 1941.

NEAR DESTINATION

Struck as she neared the end of her overnight run from North Sydney, N.S., to Port Aux Basques, Nfld., the vessel sank within a few minutes. Servicemen and civilians—men, women and children—from Canada, Newfoundland and the United States, perished as the shattered Caribou carried down scores of persons who were asleep in their staterooms when the explosion tore the ship apart.

Sixteen women and fourteen children were lost. One of the women was a Canadian navy nursing sister, and another was a member of the crew. Three of the children belonged to the same family, and their father and mother died with them.

Fifty-four Canadians—thirty-five of them servicemen—were lost. Eighteen were civilian passengers; one was a member of the crew; seven were members of the Royal Canadian Navy; eighteen were in the Royal Canadian Air Force, and the remaining ten were soldiers.

The Canadian army and navy also suffered the loss of some non-Canadian personnel.

Out of the crew of forty-six—mostly Newfoundlanders—thirty-one were drowned. Another eight of the victims consisted of United States service personnel, and there were five United States civilians.

The remaining twenty-six victims were Newfoundland civilians on the passenger list.

From Europe Day by Day—

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1942, by Southam Co.)

LONDON, Oct. 16 (By Cable).—The Germans have not yet given up operations designed to capture Stalingrad. They are making fresh attacks in the factory zone and violent fighting is in progress. Red troops have fallen back somewhat but, according to the news from the Stockholm correspondent of The Times, what purports to be the final Nazi blow has been parried.

Apparently last Wednesday was the critical day. The Germans were confident the city was theirs when Soviet forces launched a surprise counter-attack and Soviet airmen a heavy rain of bombs with the result that the Nazis were beaten back and their assault collapsed. German war correspondents express endless astonishment at the Russian troops' inability to know when they are defeated. They say even Russian women and children still live in shattered houses and ignore fires and explosions all around them.

From Moscow, the correspondent reports that while mainly on the defensive around Mozdok, Red troops at one point hold the initiative now. They are fighting furiously to prevent Germans in the mountains from breaking through to Tuapse Harbor on the Black Sea. Fierce tank battles are taking place in the hills and the Nazis are using bombers and artillery on a big scale.

The military correspondent of The Times reports a change in German tactics around Stalingrad. Instead of mass attacks involving heavy losses, the enemy now subjects a given area of the city to a heavy artillery pounding and follows this with groups of infantry, who try to gain a few yards here and there.

Exactly a year after the Soviet Government departments and foreign diplomats were evacuated from Moscow to Kuibyshev, the Russian capital is more confident of victory loom upon the horizon."

Solomons Fight Causes Anxiety In Washington

U.S. Navy Announces Landing of Large Japanese Reinforcements

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (CP).—The fight for control of Guadalcanal Island in the Solomons assumed an ominous tone today when the United States Navy announced that large Japanese reinforcements of men and equipment had been landed and that American shore positions were under direct fire by Japanese batteries.

News from the Solomons was admittedly bad, with the second announcement of this week of Japanese reinforcements reaching their garrison on the jungle-laden island of Guadalcanal. This seemed to demonstrate that the Japanese hold naval control of the Solomons area. The only mention of American surface ships today concerned tiny motor torpedo boats in that area.

CAUTIOUS EXPRESSION

A cautious expression of hope for victory was voiced late today by Navy Secretary Frank Knox. Asked at a press conference whether he thought the American positions could be held, he replied:

"I certainly hope so. I expect so. I don't want to make any predictions, but every man out there, afloat and ashore, will give a good account of himself."

The Japanese offensive started last Sunday night when American naval units defeated a Japanese force of cruisers, destroyers and transports attempting to land reinforcements on Guadalcanal. One Japanese heavy cruiser, four destroyers and a transport were sunk Sunday night, and on Monday morning naval aircraft heavily damaged another cruiser and a destroyer, which probably sank. American losses were confined to the loss of one destroyer.

In spite of their heavy losses, Japanese naval units returned to

Imminence Of Attack Is Menace

MONTREAL, Oct. 16 (CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in an address here tonight, expressed the fear that peoples of the new world failed to realize "the appalling menace of Axis attack upon the Americas, or, speaking relatively, how imminent it may be."

The Prime Minister spoke at a huge dinner sponsored by the Montreal Rotary Club in the interests of the forthcoming Victory Loan. The address was broadcast over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

He described the horrors war has brought to conquered countries of Asia and Europe and warned that the Americas could hope for no less if the war is lost. Domination, subjugation and extermination was the goal of the Axis powers and there could be no compromise with them.

After three years of war, he continued, nowhere has the balance been turned decisively against the enemy. "Crucial battles" were being fought at the moment, and "others

HIDEOUS NAZI METHODS USED

Sinking Proves Canada Up Against Ruthless Enemy, Minister Says

OTTAWA, Oct. 16 (CP).—Navy Minister Macdonald in a statement tonight on the torpedoing of the steamship Caribou said: "If anything were needed to prove the hideousness of Nazi warfare, surely this is it."

Mr. Macdonald said the sinking of the ship, operating between North Sydney, N.S., and Port Aux Basques, Nfld., "Brings the war to Canada with tragic emphasis . . . If there were any Canadians who did not realize that we were up against a ruthless and remorseless enemy, there can be no such Canadians now."

Mr. Macdonald's statement follows:

The sinking of the Ss. Caribou brings the war to Canada with tragic emphasis. We deplore the loss of officers and men of our fighting forces and those of the United States. So, too, do we deplore the loss of men of the Royal Navy. The brave captain of the ship and members of his crew went down with her. Many male civilians were lost and their relatives have our greatest sympathy.

Axis Uneasy Over Allied Push Expected in Egypt

Enemy's Radios Busy Explaining Costly Air Assaults on Malta—October's Bag Reaches 100

LONDON, Oct. 16 (AP).—Axis radios reported uneasily today that a new Allied offensive is being prepared in Egypt in which United States troops would play a big role, explaining in part the furious air assaults on Malta which have cost the Axis 100 planes this week.

Malta's defenders shot down five Axis bombers and nine fighters during daylight today for an officially tabulated total of 100 enemy planes downed during October. Three more alerts sounded tonight as the attacks continued.

The official total was slightly under the independently tabulated figures which showed more than 110 planes had been shot down since the attacks were intensified last Sunday. Neither total took into account scores of planes almost certainly damaged fatally.

Two submarines of the Mediterranean fleet sank three enemy supply ships and damaged four others.

R.A.F. fighters and bombers attacked enemy supply columns moving to the Alamein front eighty miles from Alexandria and the bases at Tobruk, Balum and Sidi Haneish.

The intensive assaults on Malta started Sunday with all the appearance of a defensive screen for German sea trains carrying reinforcements and supplies to the desert forces of Marshal Erwin Rommel. The successful submarine attacks seemed to bear out this view.

The German-controlled Paris radio was heard speculating that the visit to London of Field Marshal

Takes $5,000,000 in Victory Loan Bonds

Provincial Government Applies for Freedom Securities—Investments Now Total $12,317,500—Present Purchase May Be Largest in B.C.

THE Provincial Government's application for $5,000,000 in Third Victory Loan bonds, announced yesterday by Premier John Hart, will bring the investment of the Province in Dominion war securities during the current struggle to $12,317,500.

Investments to date are under two main categories. The Province subscribed $800,000 to the first War Loan and $487,500 to the second War Loan. The investment in the first Victory Loan was $1,030,000, and in the second Victory Loan $5,000,000.

In addition to this, the British Columbia Workmen's Compensation Board has subscribed $1,040,000 since the start of the war. Its investments are: First War Loan, $40,000; first Victory Loan, $300,000; second Victory Loan, $700,000. It has not yet been said what the board's investment will be in the third Victory Loan.

As in the second Victory Loan, when its subscription was among the highest, it is expected the British Columbia Government's present investment will constitute one of the largest made by any of the Provinces in the current drive.

PREMIER MAKES APPEAL

In signing the application on behalf of the Province yesterday, Premier Hart issued an appeal to all citizens and firms to invest in and support the loan to the fullest extent.

"The slogan chosen for the third Victory Loan, namely, 'Nothing matters now but victory,' I feel is a most suitable one, since we are today fighting not only for the preservation of all those democratic institutions which we hold so dear, but for our very lives," Premier Hart declared.

"We are beset on every hand and, while it has been comforting to observe during the past few months how the United Nations are gathering their strength for the final assault, yet we must not let ourselves become indifferent to the need that exists to still further strengthen that effort so that when the big offensive takes place we will have plenty of reserves in manpower and equipment to back it up.

MUST NOT SHIRK DUTY

"Let us not shirk our duty. Let us invest to the limit so those who fight for us abroad may not say we failed them in their hour of need. The lives of thousands of Canadian sailors, soldiers and airmen rest on the decision we, as individuals, make during the next three weeks. The degree of our support will determine the degree to which they are equipped to carry on the fight for our rights, liberties and the preservation of our homes. I therefore would urge each and every citizen to subscribe willingly, unsparingly and unselfishly."

Premier Hart signed the Victory Loan application form in the presence of Senator G. H. Barnard, Harold Henderson and J. W. Ruggles, members of the special names committee of the Victory Loan campaign.

FRENCH OFFICER KILLED AT DAKAR

American troops also were said by the Nazis to be disembarking in the Belgian Congo and British Nigeria.

Antonio Tovar, a Spanish Falangist leader, took up this theme several days ago by saying that United States troops were in Equatorial Africa, and warning Vichy that it must be ready to protect Northwest Africa from "a new and tremendous imperialism."

Contributing to this Axis pressure on the Laval Government, the Algiers radio was quoted by Reuter's as saying last night that Germany had presented France with these two conditions for restoration to a prewar position:

"She must help protect Europe by defending Africa to prevent it falling into Anglo-Saxon hands.

"She must supply workers to the Nazi war industry."

Well-Known City Resident Passes

James A. McIntosh, a native of Boston and resident of Victoria since 1883, died Thursday night at his home, 1426 Elford Street. He was seventy-five years of age.

Mr. McIntosh was on the board of managers of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for many years, and a member of the Victoria Kiwanis Club. He had been employed as a salesman by W. & J. Wilson for forty-eight years.

Surviving are his widow; a son, J. H. McIntosh, and one sister, Mrs. George Meldram. The funeral will be held today at 3:30 p.m. from Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, and interment will be made at Ross Bay Cemetery. It has been requested that no flowers be sent.

DIES IN FIRE

ABERDEEN, Wash., Oct. 16 (AP).—The United States Army's Northwest Defence Sector Command announced today one soldier was burned to death in a fire which destroyed the main building of a camp at Elma, Wash., twenty miles from here.

Premier Makes Victory Bond Investment

THE WAR TODAY

By JOHN COLLINGWOOD READE

AXIS IN TIGHT SPOT AS VENTURES COSTLY

The Axis is beginning to run into difficulties. It is no longer able to bring ambitious military ventures to a successful concluson. And the nature of the ventures is such that if they are not brought to a successful conclusion they prove so costly and expose Axis forces to so much peril in the future that they had much better not have been started.

The important thing to bear in mind when contemplating the impasse to which the Axis has been brought is that the great bulk of the British Army and the very considerable American Expeditionary Force have not yet been thrown into the scales at all. It may be argued that the whole strength of Germany and Italy, with their associated powers, has not been thrown into the struggle, and that a considerable portion of the Axis military potential has been set aside to meet the Anglo-American forces when they are ready to strike.

This is no doubt true. But the enemy is now placed in the nerve-wracking position of disadvantage in which the British found themselves during that terrible year between June, 1940, and June, 1941, when she had to dispose her strength according to her best judgment, not knowing when or where the apparently invincible monster would strike next.

These problems, which gave the British so many anxious weeks, and which so nearly overwhelmed them, are even more vexatious to the Axis, coming as they do at the end of an exhausting campaign, and being complicated by appalling difficulties on the home front. The tide of animosity is rising against the enemy throughout occupied Europe, and pinning down large forces of political police and occupation troops; the threat of epidemic disease haunts the German administrators like a nightmare; labor shortage has become acute; plant and machinery that has been used day and night solely for the production of material immediately required is beginning to wear out, with no provision made to replace it; transportation difficulties multiply as German-occupied territories have been extended without a corresponding increase in rolling stock, and the shipping losses are far outstripping the rate of new construction.

FOOD RUNNING SHORT

Finally, and perhaps most embarrassing of all, food and raw materials are running short. Agriculture was neglected, because it had been expected that military conquest would yield the harvest of other lands as booty, and mineral reserves were consumed with profligate extravagance in the belief that they could be replenished from the ample storehouses in Russia.

But none of the Axis expectations has been fulfilled, and the enemy is confronted with the virtual certainty that a powerful attack will be made upon him by fresh British and United States armies just when he needs time to recuperate his strength. He is morally certain that he will not be given that time, and he is not at all sure how to distribute his limited and widely disseminated forces to meet the attack, because he does not know where the blow will be struck.

In the meantime, Allied air superiority concentrated in the British Isles and the Middle East is impeding his troop movements, blocking his supply lines, destroying his ships and aircraft and disrupting his efforts at industrial reorganization on the home front. He has a large force in North Africa which must either be bolstered with additional troops and equipment or face the certainty of destruction, and he is not sure how wise it would be to lose more shipping and aircraft trying to push reinforcements to Africa, because of the possibility of losing these too.

We of the United Nations have our problems. Our leaders spend anxious days and sleepless nights trying to weld together the elaborate structure of Allied military power and apply it so as to meet the threat of enemy attack and prepare to deliver decisive blows.

But their troubles and anxieties are by no means so full of anguish and perplexity as those which must torture the pundits in Rome and Berlin.

TOKIO UNEASY

Even Tokio is uneasy and has recalled its commanders in the South Pacific to urgent conferences with the Japanese War Cabinet. American naval losses suffered in the opening engagements of the Solomon campaign have been avenged. On Sunday night American forces sank a heavy Japanese cruiser, four destroyers and a 5,000-ton transport, at a cost of one destroyer. On Monday Allied aircraft pursuing the Japanese fleet put a second cruiser out of action and probably sank another destroyer.

Three days previously direct hits were scored by Allied aircraft on two Japanese cruisers, one of which was severely damaged, if not sunk. Apparently, fresh reinforcements have reached the United States Marines on Guadalcanal Island, for they are now on the offensive, extending the territory under their control.

Japan's grip on the northern bastion of her defence system has been loosened and will soon be lost altogether. American and Canadian bombers are attacking the Japanese base at Kiska every day without any interference at all, except from anti-aircraft batteries, for the enemy has no more aircraft on the island.

The Japanese position is such, however, that, though it may be possible to contain their forces and prevent them from increasing their threat to Allied positions or extending their hold on Allied territory, it will be virtually impossible to drive them out swiftly and completely from the positions they now occupy until Germany is beaten. The job can be done as soon as Germany is beaten, and can best be done from China and from Russian territory, which will probably become available for Allied use when the Germans are defeated.

With the European adversaries out of the war, enough shipping, aircraft and naval power can be concentrated in the Indian Ocean and Bay of Bengal to support a very strong offensive out of India through Burma to Southwestern China to split the Japanese-controled territory in two and segregate the Japanese South Pacific possessions from primary Japanese bases in Formosa and Korea and the islands of Japan.

The most perplexing problem confronting the United Nations is how to keep China in the field and adequately supplied with weapons and air support while still accumulating offensive strength in Britain and Africa to deal a crushing blow against the Germans in the next few months when there is the best chance of beating them decisively.

The accompanying map is merely a record of the recent developments in Europe and North Africa, showing where they took place.

The survivors, who were landed here the day of the sinking, told how Captain Taverner steered his settling craft at the boldly-surfaced submarine after the hit, apparently in an effort to ram the attacker. But the Caribou slid under before she could get her icebreaker's prow against the hull of the U-boat.

Apart from the death loosed by her torpedo, the submarine herself was believed to have contributed to the loss of life. Some survivors said that as she broke surface, the hull of the U-boat capsized one or two rafts and smashed a lifeboat, and they believed some of those on the rafts and boat were lost.

The capsizing of another lifeboat apparently sent around forty persons to death. George Smothers, of Toledo, a United States Navy cook, said the boat originally carried about fifty persons, but only six aboard it were left after it had rolled over several times.

SAVED HER BABY

One woman in it managed to cling to her baby throughout the hours of the ordeal.

It was between three and five hours before all the survivors were picked up, because of the darkness and the fact the arriving naval craft were busy tracking down the submarine. The survivors, some of them with only bits of flotsam to cling to, waited in water that chilled to the bone.

Two were dead when they reached land—W. A. Glasgow, a Canadian naval man, and a baby not definitely identified. As in the case of all the servicemen—the lost and the survivors—Glasgow's home town was not given in the casualty list issued here after the survivors had been brought ashore.

Of the total lost, fifty-seven were servicemen of all types. There were forty-nine civilian victims and thirty-one crew members.

Among the civilian passengers were twenty-two men, fifteen women and twelve children, ranging in ages from eight months to sixteen years. The seventeen Canadians in this group were made up of nine from Nova Scotia, three from New Brunswick and one each from Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia.

Another Nova Scotia member of the crew was lost, making eleven in all from this province, aside from service personnel whose home towns were not given.

MOTHERS, CHILDREN LOST

A mother from Nova Scotia and one from New Brunswick each perished with her two young children. Mrs. Kathleen Skinner, thirty-five, of Halifax, was lost with her four-year-old son, Basil, and two-year-old daughter, Nancy.

Mrs. Ada Allan, a native of Bathurst, N.B., living in St. John's, Nfld., was drowned with her two daughters—Caroline, five, and Constance, sixteen months.

But the family to suffer the most crushing blow was that of the Tappers, of Burin, Nfld. Lost were J. Tapper, a rating in the Canadian Navy; his wife, Hazel, thirty-three, and their three children, John, nine; Lillian, seven, and Donald, two.

In still another multiple family tragedy, Mrs. William Strickland, of Rose Blanche, Nfld., and her two children, Abigail, four, and Vera, eight months, were victims.

Captain Taverner and his two sons, all lost, had formed a family team in the ship's crew. Son Stanley was the first mate, and Harold was third mate.

SIXTEEN FROM TOWN

Their home town of Channel, a village near Port Aux Basques on the southwest coast of Newfoundland, suffered the greatest blow of any single community in the sinking. Sixteen men from this settlement are missing following the sinking—fifteen of them seamen and the other a civilian passenger.

The one woman in the crew, Stewardess Bride Fitzpatrick, of Rose Blanche, Nfld., was drowned.

Majority of the survivors, despite their immersions in the chill Strait water washed by the Labrador current, were in good shape when they landed here. About twenty-five had to be taken to hospital, most of them women.

They came back to Sydney harbor less than twenty-four hours after they had sailed from it, leaving from North Sydney, about five miles from this city and near the mouth of the port.

Normally, their trip over the 101-mile strip of sub-haunted water between here and Port Aux Basques should have taken eight hours.

The Caribou was just two hours from her destination when death struck from beneath the surface. The ship's end came so swiftly afterward that many of those who landed here weren't sure of details of what happened.

But they were unanimous in agreeing that officers on the doomed ship did everything possible to avert panic and obtain an orderly evacuation as the sleepy-eyed passengers, many of them in night clothes only, stumbled to the decks.

ONE OFFICER SAVED

Only one officer, Purser Thomas P. Fleming, of Harbor Grace, Nfld., survived. It was Purser Fleming who rescued the child who later died on the trip to land.

The torpedo struck before 4 a.m., plunging without warning into the staunch side of the Caribou in the starboard amidships section. The explosion ripped some of her lifeboats to shreds.

FORCE JAPANESE BACK IN HILLS

about twelve miles from Kokoda, had been forced back slightly by Allied patrols.

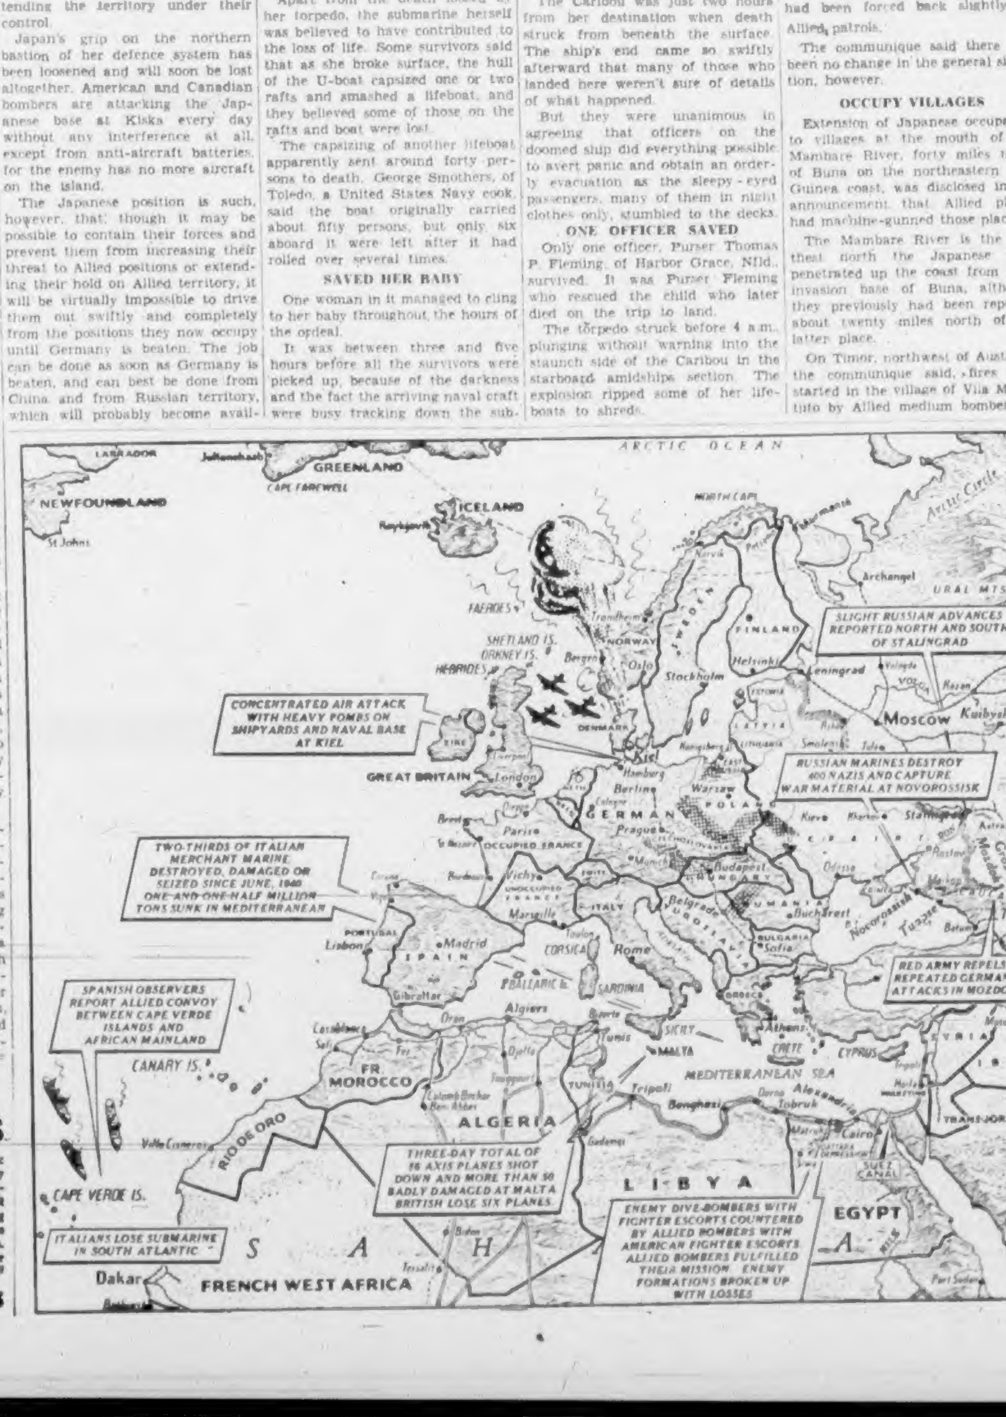
The communique said there had been no change in the general situation, however.

OCCUPY VILLAGES

Extension of Japanese occupation to villages at the mouth of the Mambare River, forty miles north of Buna on the northeastern New Guinea coast, was disclosed in the announcement that Allied planes had machine-gunned those places.

The Mambare River is the farthest north the Japanese have penetrated up the coast from their invasion base of Buna, although they previously had been reported about twenty miles north of the latter place.

On Timor, northwest of Australia, the communique said, fires were started in the village of Vila Manatuto by Allied medium bombers.



LESSER OF TWO EVILS

There was an earthquake in a South American town which badly scared the inhabitants.

An English family who lived there sent their little son to stay with an uncle in another district for safety's sake.

Two days later the parents received the following telegram:

"Am returning your boy. Send the earthquake."

List of Prisoners in Hongkong Announced

OTTAWA, (CP)—National Defence headquarters today made public a list of 297 Canadian soldiers—virtually all members of the Winnipeg Grenadiers—who are officially reported prisoners of war as a result of the Hongkong surrender last December 25.

The Canadian force at Hongkong numbered 1,985 men and the Japanese reported the [illegible] prisoners, which led to the official assumption here that 296 Canadians were killed or missing.

Lt.-Col. J. L. R. Sutcliffe, officer commanding the Winnipeg Grenadiers, and several others are known to have died while prisoners and there may have been other prisoner deaths.

The Canadians, along with British and Indian troops which formed the Hongkong garrison, fought the Japanese from December 7 last year, when the colony was attacked, until it surrendered Christmas Day.

Guns Roar as Armies Trade Blows

Long distance artillery duels are a constant part of desert warfare even when the opposing forces are not engaged in major offensives and counter-offensives. In this picture from North Africa, an enemy shell is exploding near a six-pounder gun position of the British forces, but the gunner crew goes calmly on with their sight laying and firing. New action in the desert may break out at any time.

CONDITIONS IN B.C. REVIEWED

Hon. Herbert Anscomb Addresses Oak Bay Conservative Association

Problems of pressing importance and others to be dealt with in the near future were touched on by Hon. Herbert Anscomb, Minister of Trade and Industry, Mines and Public Works, in a brief review of provincial conditions before members of Oak Bay Conservative Association at their annual meeting last night in St. Mary's Hall. He described the mining situation as serious.

"As far as mining is concerned a serious condition is already here. Whether we like it or not, gold mining will be reduced, and we face a loss of revenue there. Copper mines find it economically impossible to operate at a profit unless they can increase production. But there is a definite shortage of labor."

Mr. Anscomb referred to the rehabilitation problem, the prospect of falling revenues, timber depletion, and reviewed efforts to establish a steel industry in the province. He touched on the Provincial Government's recent activity in oil exploration and the prospects for development in the north.

ENDS LONG SERVICE

The resignation of G. F. Salmon, secretary of the association for thirteen years, was accepted with regret, and L. S. Daynes was elected to fill the post.

"Mr. Salmon has kept this organization together most successfully and was in a large measure responsible for the prestige of the Oak Bay Conservative Association," Mr. Anscomb observed, in presenting the retiring official with a personal gift as an expression of his faithful service.

Reginald Hayward was elected to the executive to succeed Capt. R. S. Johnson, who recently resigned. G. A. Cameron, a member of the executive, was appointed a delegate to the annual meeting of the British Columbia Conservative Association to be held in Vancouver on October 24 and 25. Brig. J. Sutherland Brown, president of the association, will also attend.

Brig. Brown, who presided at the meeting, reviewed an active and successful year. He told of efforts to improve the postal service in the Oak Bay area, and criticized the postmaster-general for his stand in refusing to permit the employment of women letter carriers in the district.

URGES CONTINUED SUPPORT

He urged a continuation of the support of the Coalition Government "in the interest of good government."

Mr. Anscomb said a tremendous amount of labor would be employed after the war and he predicted this would constitute a great problem from the rehabilitation viewpoint. As a world problem, he said, it would be "colossal."

A resolution urging that employers institute an apprenticeship system so that youths now employed in war industries will be trained when the war ends, was approved. It was proposed by Mr. Daynes.

In alluding to the problem of falling revenue, Mr. Anscomb spoke of the prospect of decreased motor licence and liquor tax returns and of the loss of revenue from mining.

Mr. Anscomb said that in his opinion it will be very difficult to establish a steel mill in British Columbia.

FEDERAL VIEW

Federal ministers, he said, held the view that it would be cheaper to enlarge plants in Eastern Canada and pay the freight on shipments west than to establish mills in the West.

"We must not expect Eastern Canada to do anything in an economic way for us here. I don't say this in a disparaging sense. Let's be frank—why should they encourage the loss of their western markets?"

Mr. Anscomb spoke of the rapidly depleting timber resources and was critical of the way in which the revenue had been spent.

"I don't know what the future holds for timber so far as British Columbia is concerned. We are tearing it out at a positively alarming rate and when it is gone it is gone. We have been living from the revenue of timber for years. We should never have done so."

A WASTED LIFE

As he was under orders to go abroad, the ardent young soldier begged his girl friend to marry him at once.

Rather worried about it, the girl sought advice from the maiden aunt who'd brought her up.

"Tell me what you'd do, auntie," she asked. "I suppose you think it wouldn't be sense to marry because I'm so young?"

"Well, dear," said her aunt, "I dunno! If I had my time over again, I think I'd get married before I was old enough to have sense not to."

THE FOURTH WINTER

Long in some respects, though short in others, the fourth Winter of the war finds the position of the belligerents substantially changed. Great as they have been, the enemy's land conquests have brought him neither consolidation nor comfort. The technique of the land blitz has largely failed. The attempt to annihilate whole nations from the air has recoiled upon itself. Submarine warfare, serious though it has been, has brought neither relief nor encouragement to the enemy. Wherever he looks, the enemy can find only fight.

The close of the enemy's second field campaign against Russia, now near, finds the German army bleeding from serious wounds. There has been a vast gap made in front line effectives, field equipment, planes and tanks. Nor can the gap in manpower be readily closed. Its sum is a strategic loss to the enemy, influencing the whole future conduct of the war. Despite persistent territorial gains, Germany has not broken the morale of the Russian army. It has merely strengthened it. Through two long campaigns, Russia, supported by her Allies, has fought one of the cleverest retreats in modern history.

Stopped in the air, baulked at sea and very nearly stalled on land, the position of the German armored machine is a serious one. Its enemies, north, south, east and west, are unbeaten, and implacable. The power to produce, waning in the Reich, is growing among the United Nations. The fear of losing has struck the Nazi homefront like a cold douche. The will to win has re-armed all those who are fighting for freedom on our side. Germany herself has been pounded with little cessation from the air almost day and night.

One can very nearly estimate what will come next from the German Reich. There will be wholesale attempts to break the unity of the United Nations; which, for all of its slow growth, is much more solid than it seems. There will be attempts to make a separate peace with Russia, over the heads of the Western democracies. Every effort will be made to turn the United States against Great Britain, and vice versa. A peace-offensive will be launched, for the fourth time. Failing in this, there will be massed attempts by Germany to cut her way out of the ring that is slowly, but surely closing; perhaps by way of the Caucasus gate, in an effort to link forces with Japan. The stiffest battles of the war, no doubt, lie ahead. But Germany cannot now win. She lost all chance of taking an unready world by surprise.

What we must continue to remind ourselves is that the distance between where we now stand, and victory for the freedom-loving nations of the world, is still great. Using all the good will, efficiency and address that we have, the United Nations have a long, hard, and desperate road still to travel. Germany is not beaten. Italy may be cowed, but she has not given up. Japan is hanging like a jackal on the flanks, waiting for pickings that may fall in the fray. Some day force will have to be met with equal force; on land, on sea and in the air. The preparations for that are in hand. They will speed the faster if we remember that the fight-to-a-finish will be the stiffest fight of all. Germany cannot win; but neither can we until we have put ourselves in full position to do so. Yet, as the fourth Winter comes, something has passed to our side. It is the certain, sure knowledge that the last field will be ours, that man will be free again.

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS

British Columbia taxpayers were advised yesterday by Premier John Hart that this Province would invest $5,000,000 in Canada's Third Victory Loan; matching a like contribution to the previous loan, and a substantial one to its predecessor. The Province will receive 3 per cent interest for the money; and, at the same time, gives a lead to all citizens within our borders. It is pleasant, besides, to hear of a Province that has money to invest.

British Columbia has a good record in respect of the two War Loans and the three Victory Loans that have now been launched, or announced. The Provincial Treasury purchased $800,000 of bonds in the first War Loan; $487,500 in the second War Loan; $1,030,000 in the first Victory Loan; $5,000,000 in the second Victory Loan; and has announced its subscription of $5,000,000 to the third Victory Loan, opening on Monday. That totals $12,317,500; a sum that will compare very favorably with concurrent investments in Canada.

Over and above the direct Provincial subscriptions to these loans, however, the Workmen's Compensation Board has invested $1,040,000 in Dominion wartime securities, irrespective of whatever its contribution may be towards the third Victory Loan. This is practical encouragement and support; and shows at a glance that British Columbia is doing what can be done to back up the national effort to the full.

B.C. BY-ELECTION

British Columbia is again breaking comparatively new ground in the matter of its Coalition Government. The first by-election to be held since the Liberal-Conservative coalition took office almost a year ago is now called, and it will be contested on the Government side by a straight coalition candidate, Mayor C. Thomson, Salmon Arm.

The Provincial Administration announced the date of the by-election at Salmon Arm yesterday; with official nominations to take place on November 17, and polling in the riding on November 23. The voters' list will close on October 31, as required under amended election statutes.

Mayor Thomson, who thus becomes the first coalition candidate in British Columbia in modern times, and one of the first in all Canada, was chosen at a joint nominating convention in the riding, with Liberals and Conservatives participating in the balloting.

It remains now for the only other organized group outside of the coalition, the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, to say whether or not the by-election will be contested. Presumably it will be, because the C.C.F. stood out from the coalition, and has formed the official opposition in the Twentieth Legislature since. Other candidates there may also be, but in the nature of things these will be independents.

The desire of the Administration to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Hon. Rolf Bruhn, former Minister of Public Works, before the next session of the Legislature assembles, will accord also with the wishes of the people of Salmon Arm. Because of its nature, however, the result of this first test at the polls will be watched with interest, both in British Columbia, and in Canada as a whole.

A FAMOUS CORPS

For a little while today Victoria will have the opportunity of saying what it thinks of the United States Marine Corps, members of which fought so gallantly at Bataan and Wake Island, and who are now putting up such a magnificent stand in the Solomon Islands. Three officers and 100 other ratings of the famous corps will march through city streets today, in support of Canada's Third Victory Loan.

It is an opportunity not to be missed. Whatever its inherent reserve as a community, and that is rooted and deep, Victoria may not again have such a chance to greet in a fitting manner the representatives of a fighting unit whose regimental name stands as high as our best. United States Marines there have been for many a decade, and "Leathernecks" there will be for many a year to come.

Victoria should free itself from its inhibited reserve, and give them a welcome that will stay in the heart. For these are the men that come of hardy, fighting stock; the "Devil Dogs" who have brightened the pages of their own history, and whose regimental colors are in the front line now for freedom. So often we take these things for granted, or are baulked by mere shyness from expressing what we feel, that the opportunity passes, not soon to come again.

Back of the United States Marines as they will march through Victoria today—in our own Victory Loan parade—are all those who are hurrying to stand in the battle lines for freedom. Their "buddies" are in Ireland, in England; in the Near, Middle and Far East; in the air, on land, and at sea countless miles out of sight of these shores. But it is the same job that they are doing, and doing well. If there is that in our hearts as we watch the "Devil Dogs" go by, let us say, and say it well. Tomorrow we can be shy, again.

SEA-GOING AIRMEN

Though its services are little known to the public, and not, perhaps, any too well known to the force itself, there is a sea-going section to the Royal Canadian Air Force. It mans the crashboats that watch the take-offs and landings of marine-type planes; attends to refueling and many other services; patrols the practice bomb ranges; and, on the eastern coast at any rate, has taken a direct and effective part in convoy work.

For some time past, the marine section of the R.C.A.F. has been asking for a distinguishing badge of its own; something that will identify a sea-going airman from all others in the same force. The suggestion appears to have a good deal of merit, when one considers how difficult it is to build, and how easy it is to lose, esprit de corps.

Naval and military forces have developed badges to a fine art; and the R.C.A.F. itself has not been one whit behind this movement in all other directions save that of its marine sections. At present, some of those serving in the marine sections of the air service feel that they represent the poor relation of the corps, the neglected fifth part.

If there is no real reason for the failure to identify men with special qualifications—and some with their master's papers at sea—no insurmountable difficulty should be encountered in finding a solution. A suitable badge should not be hard to design, and its existence would mean much to men who are giving excellent service, and that often around the clock. This may be considered one of the little things at the bottom of the bag of departmental worries; but it is often the little things that can contribute both harmony and good service, in the end.

ADDISON'S WORK

"The Spacious Firmament on High," reprinted in these columns yesterday, was attributed to Andrew Marvell. As a contributor points out, Joseph Addison was the author.

HIS DARKEST HOUR

How I have loved thee, Earth! Scenes that I leave,
Gardens of musing walled in laurel white;
Eve's bowers, whence the vesper-bird would grieve
In plaintive number for the waning light,
And pour its swelling heart of love abroad;
Soft winding valleys of deep, dewy grass,
Grazed o'er by sleek and slowly wandering kine;
Old roads, with goldenrod
Lined festive, as though Orient kings might pass—
Now all is lost—the song, fruit, sun and wine.

The matin bird, that hurried his clear flute
The swift unfolding glories of the day
To praise, has now departed or is mute;
The feathery birches of the woodland way,
Whose leaves, like to a thousand lamps of light
Twinkled across the waning sun, are bare;
The Hebe blush of life is lost; the smile
Of hope from my dim sight
Passes away; the hooded face of prayer
Lingers alone o'er Earth's cold shrine awhile.

And thou hast ta'en my flowers, conspiring Death!
That Love and I had chosen for our speech:
Roses for ardor, with a passioned breath;
Lilies for Love's own soul; and unto each
Sweet blossoms we had given qualities:
Pansies for innocence, because their eyes
Are always open wide; daisies for grace;
Poppies for that rich ease,
That trust of Love, whose only words are sighs;
All thou hast ta'en, and veiled too e'en Love's face.

So seems it now, tried soul! but from Death's seed Rise Spring; translated Love; a hero's crown; God's face indeed.

—John Stuart Thomson.

It is defeat that turns bone to flint, and gristle to muscle, and makes men invincible, and formed those heroic natures that are now in ascendancy in the world. Do not then be afraid of defeat. You are never so near to victory as when defeated in a good cause.—H. W. Beecher.

For the cause that lacks assistance,
For the wrong that needs resistance,
For the future in the distance,
And the good that I can do.
—George Linnaeus Banks (1821-81).

THE SEA OF NO NAME (6)

A little while ago I sat beside the navigator of a flying boat at a point 150 miles westward over the Pacific ocean. The plane was flying at 4,000 feet, in steady air. The weather was spotty. To sea, one could see for leagues into the northwest, from whence a steady light breeze was blowing, creaming the tops of the waves. To the southwest, low banks of clouds, heavy with rain, dropped closer and closer to the water. Shoreward, a hanging mist was festooned in loose veils over the coastline, threatening to close down and shut out the shore from our sight. I watched the navigator, a young and competent observer in the Royal Canadian Air Force; one of the many who today are finding out much about the Sea of No Name.

The navigator kept a close watch on his compass. From time to time he made minor corrections in the course, and handed fresh bearings on slips of paper up to the pilot, ahead. He checked the wind-drift of the plane, by taking notice of the Pacific rollers, with their contrary-driven wind flecks below. The sun came out for a little while, and, like a careful mariner, the observer used his sextant. He was thoroughly at home. Even if all of the mists had dropped, and all of the clouds closed in, the observer knew the plane's position almost to a pin-point; and could have brought her out to clear air without much difficulty. I cite this one instance because it is navigation; and it is navigation that will claim for us the Sea of No Name.

There are times, however, when the task is not as simple as that. Over land or water, clouds sometimes pile into thick, opaque masses; 4,000 feet deep and many miles in length. It is a little like a dissolving continent, or a floating island as Dean Swift once had the wit to imagine. Into it one flies, seeing nothing. Impenetrable to the eye in mass, cloudland is composed of a thin, vaporous collection of gossamer white wisps, a mere nothing. The white veils break before the plane, and close in again behind it. On each side, over and under, there is insubstantial screening. Looking towards the sun, the clouds show a more or less luminous haze. Away from the sun, they assume a dark and threatening aspect. It is confusing, even to the most experienced pilot, who is wondering what is above, and also what is below. Deep bodies of cloud are stormy passages to a plane. It is a rough and choppy sea, for all its intangibility. In some, there are electro-magnetic manifestations, when St. Elmo's fire will gleam with ghostly lights along the metal surfaces. It is like entering a new world to break through a heavy cloud bank and arrive on top, above a sunlit, seemingly motionless, sea of pure lamb's wool, incredibly tossed and disordered, and surpassingly beautiful.

Some men know it as the great saucer, for human vision confines all of its distances into a round-ring horizon, given the opportunity. At the centre, below the plane, the centre of the saucer travels ever onward; while, curving far away to the one-piece horizon, there is a gradual upward slope. At the horizon are the far peaks of the cloud-mountains, perhaps thousands of feet in height, but dwarfed to pin-points, flashing in the sun. Such are the limitations of human vision. An accustomed sight to air travelers on this continent is the great cloud saucer, which forms and dissolves, reforms and is gone again, with the vagaries of a single day.

It was John Ruskin who drew men's attention to the clouds. He showed that each mountain range made its own changing cloud pattern; that, high in the air, the lightest clouds are wind-swept at their edges, individual in shape, and never repeated in pattern. Clouds are born, for the most part, over water, though not all of them are so. We have come to recognize many different kinds of clouds, each in its own strata, and each with a particular significance to mankind, if he would travel the cubic air-ocean. But, with altitude, even the clouds are left behind, and man sails then with the cloudlands below him, and above, the clean vault of heaven—"Where never lark or eagle flew." It is a mighty ocean, the Sea of No Name. We do not yet know its bounds.

QUITE REASONABLE

At the end of the first week the mistress tackled the new maid.

"When I engaged you," she said, "you told me you were never tired."

"That's right," was the cheerful reply.

"But I've caught you asleep in the kitchen three afternoons this week."

"Well," was the complacent reply, "I should be tired if I never went to sleep."

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily Colonist of October 17, 1892)

A Bump—A tramcar ran into a heavily loaded truck opposite the rice mills on Store Street yesterday afternoon. A broken wheel on the latter and a few scratches on the former were all that resulted.

A False Alarm—An alarm of fire was sent into the Deluge Hall yesterday evening. There was nothing definite about the alarm, but a glow on the dense fog sent the department scurrying out towards Belcher Street. After chasing around and running the horses nearly to death, the source of the fire was discovered in one of the houses on the quarantine station. These had been set on fire by order of Dr. Richardson. Chief Deasy was very indignant over the long useless run, saying that it left the horses in bad shape for responding to a genuine alarm as they were completely exhausted.

Strong in Numbers—The Sealers' Union held its first social meeting in the Trades and Labor Hall last evening, a good majority of the members, some 330 men, attending.

Third Battalion Band Are Hosts To Shrine Band

The 3rd Battalion Canadian Scottish and Gizeh Shrine Band held a joint rehearsal Thursday evening, some of the Scottish ex-members, who are now in the permanent forces, attending.

After rehearsal refreshments were served, followed by a programme of songs and moving pictures. Arrangements were carried out by an able committee consisting of J. Watson, E. Clarke, [illegible] and W. Davidson.

During the evening Captain Miller, bandmaster of the two bands, spoke briefly of the cordial and friendly relations existing between the bands, remarking that it was no doubt due to the fact that the Shrine Band had on one of their ceremonial trips to Los Angeles worn the kilt and had without doubt absorbed some of the traditions that go with it.

He also mentioned the difficulties they had to keep a band in the reserve, all the younger members having to leave to join the permanent units.

Observation Car

By G. B.

Note from Jimmy: "A friend of mine who has been away recently received his coupons for tea, coffee and sugar. Also in the same envelope was a clothing ration booklet which showed that men will be able to spend only $7 per month on clothing. It had obviously been sent by mistake, so he got rid of it in the next mail" . . . Seattle policemen have been ordered by Chief H. D. Kimsey to help pick up scrap metal. In the same city five youths were arrested by police for slashing four tires on a defence girl worker's car and another on a machine owned by a sailor. It appears the boys asked the defence worker and a companion to attend a party, but they chose to visit a cafe with two sailors. Then the vandals got busy with knives . . . A splendid example was set in the Old Country by Harry Marland, Justice of the Peace for the city of Manchester and chairman of a large company. He lent to the country almost the whole of his fortune, free of interest, for the duration of the war. On a B.B.C. home news programme he stated: "Three of my sons are in the fight—one in the Navy, one in the Royal Air Force and one in the Tank Corps. What could I do? I sent my cheque to the Chancellor of the Exchequer saying that it was offered as a loan, interest free, and I received a certificate entitling me to repayment three months after the signing of a treaty of peace. If I die in the meantime and my executors want the money for any reason I am assured it would be available immediately" . . . From Bill, the Broad Street barber: "The average husband is one who is not as good as his wife thought he was before she married him, nor as bad as she thought he was afterward" . . . Credit for the discovery of aluminum goes to the famous British scientist Sir Humphrey Davy, who extracted the metal in 1809.

ON THE RECORD

—By DOROTHY THOMPSON

DEMOCRATIC IDEALS

I think it is time again to look at the reality of this war. This war is a struggle by two nations for the mastery of the globe. The plan is blueprinted and clear.

The German plan is the military domination of the great land area of Eurasia, regarding Africa as its annex, with control of all the internal seaways—the Mediterranean, the Black Sea, the Caspian and the Persian Gulf.

This involves, first, the conquest of France, and then the conquest of Russia, to be followed by the conquest of Egypt and the Middle East.

This plan did not originally, or immediately, involve the conquest of the British Empire. All the evidence shows that Hitler hoped to obtain the collaboration of Britain in it, and, in exchange, was prepared to "guarantee" the existence of the British Empire. This idea was rejected by Great Britain, for idealistic and materialistic reasons. A nation controlling Eurasia would be in a position to strike at any moment at the British Isles themselves and at the whole British world, whenever it chose to do so, and once it had consolidated its strength would be unconquerable by any other Western power or consolidated remnants of power on earth.

JAPANESE PLAN

The Japanese plan is, from the island base, which occupies off Asia the position of Britain off Europe, first, to create a huge land base in China, and by a combination of naval and land power to dominate and organize the whole Pacific area. This means the total conquest of China, the conquest of all other European empires or spheres of influence, and the establishment of Japan in the role of Germany in the Far East.

This Pacific area—like the Eurasian area—has no natural limitations. It can include India, Australia, and the Pacific shores of South America, North America, and, certainly, Alaska.

The conjunction of these predicated German and Japanese Empires could lead at the end to a struggle between them, but not before all other powers had been eliminated, and they had reached their largest extensions.

If we can imagine what they have planned, there would be one part of the world encircled by them, and that would be the so-called Western Hemisphere, two large islands, which would be in the pincers of them both, unprotected in two oceans. For every Atlantic and Pacific outpost, including the British Isles, would be conquered, disarmed, or drawn by politics into their sphere of influence.

The Americas in such a set-up would be helpless and finished. No guarantee whatsoever could save us, for a guarantee, in itself, when the overwhelming bulk of power is on the opposite side, is only a means of bloodless subjection. The guaranteed power has to accept the conditions of the guarantor. Even an alliance does not change that condition, as Italy now knows.

That, therefore, is the reason we are fighting this war. Apart from all ideologies, we are fighting it to foil this monstrous military conspiracy for the primary purpose of sheer survival.

NO CHANCE ALONE

We would have not the slightest chance of survival if we stood alone as an isolated power. We might survive for a generation while the Eurasian power and the Far Eastern power were being consolidated, but, in thirty years the American children of today would fight a war and lose it.

We have a chance against this outcome, because we are not alone. We have alliances. As long as they stand, and we fight arm in arm, for our mutual survival, we can be convinced of victory.

We did not choose our alliances. They were given us by the nature of the war. We are not asked by destiny whether we like the inner structure, the political history, or even the ambitions of all of our allies. And the same is true for our allies. They have not been asked by destiny whether they like us. Maybe there are persons amongst us who would prefer to fight only with prototypes of American democracy, only with powers that have no imperial past or present, only with powers that believe in the capitalist system—just as there may be persons amongst our allies who would prefer to fight with an American monarchy, or an American Soviet state. But we and they have no choice.

TRUE COALITION

Only if we realize the supreme importance of this fact of alliance, are we able to build the base for a true war of coalition. The future is important, and has to be discussed. But it can be discussed only in the fullest realization that there will be no future for any of us unless we stick together.

Our enemies know this so well that they hope to win this war by politics—namely by playing on the divergencies of our political and economic structures, international interests and ideologies. One of the monkey wrenches they are throwing into our war of coalition is called "British Imperialism." Another is "American plutocracy." Another is "the Bolshevization of Europe."

But we must keep our eyes single-mindedly fixed on our goal—which is their defeat, and our survival. Our survival is our victory. Out of that victory we can make a newly-organized world—or throw it into international cut-throat competition for another generation.

But first we have to survive—all together, or not at all.

This Week of War

—By MAJ.-GEN. SIR CHARLES GWYNNE—

LONDON, Oct. 16 (CP).—A final German attempt to take Stalingrad before Russia's strong ally—Winter—takes its place alongside the Soviets, now is in full swing despite the antagonism of the German General Staff to another all-out effort.

I believe the attack is being made on the personal order of Hitler, who has overruled the advice of his general staff, and I also believe Stalingrad will hold off the Nazi horde.

The lull before the final assault was certainly of value to the defence, which has received fresh reinforcements and used them in effective counter-attacks. Russian artillery has always played a conspicuous part in the war and Stalingrad appears to be holding its own well against the Germans.

TIMOSHENKO'S PROGRESS

Marshal Timoshenko's relieving offensives north and south of the city, though making slow progress, maintain their presure and compel the Germans to expend increasing numbers for protection of their flanks and communications.

The footing Timoshenko has established on the west bank of the Don, if allowed to develop, may add considerably to German difficulties in protecting their supply lines. Should the Germans abandon attempts to carry Stalingrad by assault, it would seem they would be compelled to undertake offensive operations on a large scale against a relieving army—the northern one particularly in order to drive it back to a safer distance.

It remains to be seen whether the Russians have reserves of airpower which have deliberately not been used against the great concentration of aircraft the Germans employed in their offensive. If the Russians have such reserves, their chances may come later when the Germans are compelled to transfer the bulk of their air force to the West.

EGYPTIAN AERIAL ACTIVITY

Egypt, although the lull has not broken, is again attracting attention. The Italian press states Gen. Sir Harold Alexander is preparing a large-scale offensive by his 8th Army, and Allied air forces have been active against the enemy's communications and airdromes.

It would seem probable that Marshal Rommel during his recent visit to Germany appealed for reinforcements and was promised them, for Malta has again been heavily attacked—a sure sign that important convoys will be dispatched to Tripoli, which has become Rommel's chief port of debarkation because Bengasi and Tobruk have been so heavily attacked by air from Egypt.

AUSTRALIANS PRESS ON

The Far East news also is good. The Australians, after a deliberate advance, have again reached the crest of the Owen Stanley Range on New Guinea and have regained contact with the Japanese.

Events in the Solomons have been even more important. Hardly had Washington published its naval losses incurred in recapture of Tulagi when an important success took place against the Japanese landing reinforcements at Guadalcanal.

GLANCING BACK 25 YEARS

Formation of a Union Government for Canada with Sir Robert Borden as Prime Minister, was announced October 12, 1917.

Fighting on the Western Front in that week was confined to the sector east of Ypres, where Canadian soldiers moved into attacking positions in front of Passchendaele Ridge. On the Eastern Front, German forces occupied fortified islands in the Gulf of Riga and bottled up Russian naval forces in the same area.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the sill at the Esquimalt Drydock at any tide, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

FIRST POSTAGE STAMP

The first adhesive postage stamp of Great Britain was made in 1840, and bore a portrait of young Queen Victoria.

A. S. Miller Is Again Chosen As President

A. S. Miller was re-elected president of the Victoria Choral and Orchestral Union at the ninth annual meeting of the society held on Friday evening in the Memorial Hall. Other officers elected were as follows: Vice-president, Captain Wilfrid Ord; treasurer, C. E. Ley; recording secretary, Miss Phyllis Tate; executive members, Mrs. A. V. Price and Miss Sylvia Sheldrick—the latter taking the place of Mrs. W. Ellis on the committee.

The president, in presenting his annual report, mentioned the difficulties experienced by the choir during the past year owing to so many members having joined the forces. He stressed the need of a spirit of loyalty and support to the organization during difficult wartime days in order to command the respect of the members and the support of the public. Mr. Miller mentioned as the highlight of the year the outstanding performance of the "Messiah" given last December under the threat of war on this coast and during the time of the first blackout. Mention was also made of the absence of the usual Spring recital. In concluding, Mr. Miller thanked the officers and members of the various working committees, especially mentioning the skill and untiring zeal of their conductor, Stanley Bulley; the accompanist, Edgar Holloway, and the press for continued co-operation. The members then stood in silent tribute to the memory of one of their most valued friends and supporters, the late George Phillips.

Following the presidential address the financial report was read by W. H. V. Davies.

MR. BULLEY SPEAKS

Stanley Bulley, permanent conductor of the choral union, then spoke with feeling on a question often asked of him: "What does school music do for society?" With pride he pointed to the school-age members of the choir who through proper supervision in their musical training would, he said, with other informed young members of their generation become the listening public of the future. Mr. Bulley spoke of the great need of good music for men in the services. A hearty invitation was extended to these men to attend the Friday evening practices. No fees are demanded, he stated, and they are free to come and go.

A SPRING RECITAL

In the early Spring the society is preparing to give Brahms' "Requiem." This work is never failing in appeal, the conductor stated, and this will be the third time in the last fourteen years he has presented it to a Victoria audience. The annual performance of the "Messiah" will be given this year on December 20 at 2:30 o'clock. The soloists have been tentatively chosen, but auditions are still in progress. Mr. Bulley would like singers, especially servicemen or women, to take advantage of this offer to actively take part in making music.

In closing, Mr. Bulley also mentioned the great loss sustained by the group in the death of George Phillips; and thanked Mr. Holloway for his assistance, and he also spoke of the medal recently awarded to Corporal Maquinna Daniels, R.C.A.F. (W.D.). The latter was the accompanist for the Madrigal Singers a number of years ago, and gave valuable assistance at the piano whenever called on by the choral union.

According to Culbertson

Extraordinary luck in a slam contract is likely to prove a mixed blessing. Of course, the immediate profit is very pleasant, but the fortunate player probably will lose innumerable games and rubbers in futile quest of other "miracles." Note today's hand.

Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 NT	Pass	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

South's bidding was overly aggressive. First, he made a jump take-out with only a shade better than three and one-half honor tricks on a four-card suit. Actually, he should have had a strong rebiddable suit inasmuch as he had no fit with partner. His subsequent use of the 4-5 no trump convention added insult to injury. It is bad enough to stretch once on a hand; the least a player can do is "back water" thereafter.

Due to a remarkable lay of cards, South was able to fulfill the optimistic contract. West opened the club king, declarer won and counted tricks. By ordinary play he could see only four spades, four hearts (if the heart jack dropped), two diamonds and one club, one trick short. He would not be able to ruff a club in dummy except by fatally giving up two club tricks. Nor could he hope to discard one of dummy's clubs on his own fourth heart, because he first would have to draw dummy's trumps along with the opponents'.

There was only one chance. A diamond was led to dummy, and the ace and king were cashed, declarer discarding a club. A low diamond was ruffed. A low heart was led to the queen, and dummy's last diamond was ruffed. The ace and queen of spades were cashed, and another low heart put dummy back on lead. The spade king was now cashed and, to declarer's delight, drew both of the outstanding trumps, declarer discarding a club. A heart to the ace now dropped the jack, and the heart 10 was cashed for the twelfth trick.

The overbid contract had succeeded in this instance, but I doubt that this particular declarer will do well in the long run with such bidding methods. Perfect breaks in three suits do not occur very often.

Preparations for an offensive in Burma, says the special correspondent of The Times in India, are now progressing. The necessity for open-[illegible] livery of supplies to China is urgent and it is regrettable that sabotage should have damaged railways in Northeastern India required for the High Command's future operations. The consensus of military opinion in India is that the Japanese have suffered too many blows in the Pacific, especially in the loss of aircraft carriers, to undertake a serious offensive against Ceylon or Southern India. They are using the Andaman Islands for flying boats and submarines. In Burma people are suffering bitter disillusionment from contact with the invaders, who are still in considerable strength but not so much in the north. Chinese are in the hills to the northwest and are provisioned by the Royal Air Force, which has performed remarkable transport feats.

The Times says reinforcements are pouring into India and 1,000,000 Indian recruits are completing their training.

Dealing editorially with criticism heard in the United States of Britain's treatment of her Colonial Empire, The Times says that the British idea of Empire is evolving a Commonwealth of Nations destined to find wider partnership in freedom. The Empire grew as an accumulation of responsibilities and privileges, [illegible] conquest to extensions of sovereignty often forced on a reluctant home Government. But mistakes have never lacked British critics and today abandonment of her colonial mission would be of no service by Britain either to the colonies themselves or to the world. The Times concludes that, if the United Nations after the war are to organize the world adequately for peace, then the general future of colonial policy cannot be excluded from their common concern.

The Drums of Drake are Calling...

"If Freedom be in peril, the drums of Drake shall sound"
(Old English Legend)

Today, as in the days of old, your Country and your Empire are calling you to service and to sacrifice—that the world may be free. On distant battle-fronts, in the uncharted skies, and across the seven seas, the sons of Canada are fighting — and dying—to preserve this freedom which is our heritage. Here, on the home-front, can we do less than give of our utmost endeavour and to our last resource?

Canon R. A. Hiltz Gives W.A. Inspiring Address

Highlighting the meeting of the Board of Columbia Diocesan Women's Auxiliary, held Friday afternoon at St. Mary's Hall, Oak Bay, was an address by Canon R. A. Hiltz, M.A., D.D., general secretary of the board of religious education.

Canon Hiltz stressed the importance of unity and co-operation in church work, and said that the real task before the church is a unified task, though it may be expressed in many ways; and its aim is to realize fulfillment of the prayer, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven." He also spoke of the annual meeting of the general board, held recently at Port Arthur, where this unity of purpose had been exemplified as never before.

REPORTS GIVEN

Reports of the annual meeting of the Dominion board, which took place in Winnipeg in September, were given by the president, Mrs. F. J. Brimer, and the Dorcas secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Nellans. They both gave comprehensive accounts of the inspiring sessions. The report of the Dominion treasurer showed an increase in giving, with all funds over the top; and the united thankoffering for the year was the highest in its history, being $13,111.

The work of the Indian residential schools had grown, and the need for outfits and hospital supplies had also increased. Church furnishings were needed in many smaller dioceses, and there were requests for used hymn and prayer books and for blankets. Prairie relief was still needed in some places. It was also stressed that more attention should be given to girls in the services, and hospitality provided for them. The Bishop of Calgary, in issuing a challenge to greater efforts in church work, had said: "Let us keep the church bells ringing till the boys come home."

MORNING SESSION

The opening prayers of the morning session were led by Lady Lake and the Bible reading taken by Mrs. W. J. Sheppard, and Mrs. A. A. Bengough, president of St. Mary's, welcomed the members, while Mrs. E. H. Sheppard led the prayers at the afternoon session.

The members stood in silent tribute to the memory of members who had died during the Summer: Mrs. F. Comley, of St. Alban's; Mrs. Kenneth Price, officer of the Cathedral afternoon branch; Mrs. C. Bowman, of the same branch and a life member of Calgary diocese; and Mrs. Winifred Moore, of St. Mary's branch.

Deaconess Simcox, secretary of the life member group, reported that a life membership had been conferred on Mrs. H. E. Sexton by the life members on Thursday, October 15, in the Chapel of the Peace of God, when Bishop Sexton took the opening prayers, and Mrs. Brimer read the service. Deaconess Simcox pinned the badge and Mrs. F. C. Nivin gave the certificate; Miss B. P. Foster, representing the life members Up-Island, presented a bouquet of violets and Sweetheart roses. Afterwards the Bishop and Mrs. Sexton entertained the members at refreshments at Bishop's Close.

The noonday prayers were taken by Ven. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns, who gave an address on the text: "Be still and know that I am God," and spoke of the importance of silent communion with God in these days of stress, strain and anxiety.

At the afternoon session the president extended a welcome to Miss Dorothy Lucas, life member of the Diocese of New Westminster; and later, a life membership was given to Mrs. E. J. Harris, Little Helpers' secretary, by St. Mary's branch and the Diocesan executive. The service was read by Mrs. Brimer, and Mrs. A. A. Bengough fastened the pin, and Mrs. G. Ditchan and Mrs. W. J. Goepel presented the certificate and a bouquet of Autumn flowers.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Dr. V. Sherman at the close of the meeting to St. Mary's, for hospitality to the Archdeacon and to the other speakers.

Weddings

LINDSEY—FLETCHER

Charming in every detail was the marriage of Jean Louise, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Fletcher, 1353 Pembroke Street, and Sergeant Horace Lindsey, R.C.A., only son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lindsey, 2210 Lydia Street, which was held Friday evening at Belmont United Church and conducted by Rev. H. H. Kerley.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a white chiffon sheer over taffeta, the full skirt being caught into a low waistline with an inset of pleating. The bodice was accented from the V-neckline to the waist, and the long sleeves ended in points over the wrist. Her hand-made veil of illusion net fell from a Mary Stuart headdress of embroidered net and orange blossoms. The bride's bouquet was of dark red American Beauty roses.

Attending the bride was Miss Jane Clague, wearing powder blue Swiss net over taffeta, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and rosebuds. The groomsman was Bombardier Joe E. Hancock, and ushers were Mr. Ken Bradley and Mr. Arthur Ridland.

Friends of the bride had decorated the church for the occasion with Autumn flowers, and Mr. Johnston played the wedding march, while Miss Elaine Basanta sang "Ave Maria."

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, decorated with white pompon dahlias. Tall ivory tapers and white chrysanthemums flanked the table, which was centred by the three-tier wedding cake. Mrs. L. H. Fletcher received the guests wearing a moss green crepe dress with black accessories, and Mrs. E. J. Lindsey assisted, wearing a Queen's blue crepe afternoon dress with black accessories, and both wore corsage bouquets of gardenias and Talisman roses.

Following the honeymoon, Sergeant and Mrs. Lindsey will make their home in this city. For traveling the bride wore an English green wool dress, with beige fitted coat and brown accessories, and a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses.

McMINN—GAY

The marriage between Mildred Mora, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Gay, 1745 Lillian Road, and Pte. Roy Graham McMinn, R.C.A., only son of Pte. F. J. McMinn, (Veteran's Guard), and Mrs. McMinn, Cordova Bay, was celebrated by Rev. W. J. Sipprell, D.D., in Fairfield United Church on Friday evening in a setting of Autumn flowers.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. R. McMinn, William Head, played the wedding music, and during the service the congregation sang the hymn "O Perfect Love." Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a floor-length gown of white satin with a draped bodice of brocaded taffeta. Her lovely veil of Limerick lace, which had belonged to the bridegroom's great-grandmother, was caught into a coronet of orange blossoms, and white chrysanthemums, pink carnations and mauve heather composed the bridal bouquet.

Mrs. C. Clague was matron of honor, in a frock of green net with a fitted jacket of mauve velvet with which she wore a mauve tulle shoulder veil, and carried a bouquet of mauve chrysanthemums. Mr. William Holmes was groomsman, and acting as ushers were Messrs. Cyril Holt and Leslie Fletcher. The reception was held in the church school where the guests were welcomed by Mrs. Gay in a blue wool suit with wine accessories and a corsage bouquet of pale pink carnations, assisted by Mrs. McMinn in a cloudy green jade wool dress with black hat and accessories, and a posy of chrysanthemums on her shoulder. After the toast had been given by Mr. G. A. A. Hebden, the bride cut the cake which had place of honor on the attractively appointed supper table.

For a honeymoon on the Mainland the bride left in a moss green dress with a camelhair coat and brown accessories. They will return to Victoria before the bridegroom rejoins his unit. Mr. and Mrs. C. Unwin, Cobble Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Whitney-Griffiths, Metchosin, were guests at the wedding.

WALKER—GUSTAFSON

A quiet wedding was solemnized at Metropolitan Manse by Dr. A. E. Whitehouse in the presence of the immediate family on Thursday afternoon, October 8, when Alva Doris Gustafson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Gustafson, of Hughton, Sask., became the bride of L.-Bdr. James Lorne Walker, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Walker, 162 Joseph Street, formerly of Forgan, Sask.

The bride was becomingly attired in an afternoon dress of overseas green, with fur jacket and accessories in brown, and a corsage of gardenias.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served, following which the happy couple left by motor for a honeymoon Up-Island.

L.-Bdr. and Mrs. J. L. Walker will make their home in Victoria.

Robinson, first review president, her subject being "How We Organized"; Mrs. H. English, W.B.A. deputy, her subject being "Highlights of the Organization"; Mrs. Clara Cave, 1942 review president, her subject, "Highlights of Review History." Mrs. O'Brien gave an interesting account of her impressions of the Supreme Convention and Jubilee celebrations held last Summer in Chicago. Included in her remarks was the statement that Mrs. Bina West Millar, W.B.A. founder, is the only founder of any organization living to celebrate its golden jubilee. She also quoted congratulations of American officials on the sound business basis of the organization together with figures showing the progress of the reviews and the growth in membership. Mrs. K. Erickson and other conveners gave brief details regarding Christmas Cheer collections for active service, progress on work for November sale of work, welfare and sick visits, several members being reported ill. Members paid tribute and one minute silence in memory of Mrs. Robertson. Refreshments were served following the meeting.

St. Joseph's Hospital Alumnae

A meeting of the St. Joseph's Hospital Alumnae will be held at the Nurses' Home on Monday at 8 o'clock.

Urgent Need For Greater Hospitality

Due to the fact the hospitality committee has had no response to recent appeals made through the press and over the radio for help in offering group hospitality on Sunday evenings to the men and women of the three services, the committee is making one more effort to enlist the co-operation of the community, citizens and organizations.

The Royal Victoria Theatre is to be open on Sunday from now on; the churches are offering social hours at the close of Sunday services and various hostels are open for sing-songs and social hours on a Sunday evening, but still this is not enough to take care of the thousands of troops who are in our midst.

The committee is working hard with all the means at its disposal, but it cannot do more without help from the general public.

It is not necessary to hold these social hours in halls nor to invite large numbers. Hostesses in various districts may join together by giving community parties in their homes and inviting men and women of the services.

There are those who appreciate group hospitality perhaps more than visiting individually and the group serves as a meeting ground where friends can be made and where individual invitations follow.

The committee hopes that those who have not yet seen the urgent need for helping in this work will come forward and join the hundreds who have already volunteered. The united efforts of all are needed to be mobilized so that we can say that it is not necessary for there to be any lonely Sundays for the men and women of the services who are here from other parts of Canada.

Members Attend Missionary Rally

The annual rally of United Missionary Circles in Victoria was held at First United Church on Wednesday. The Gleaners Mission Circle was in charge of arrangements and the president, Miss Helen Porter, welcomed the fifty guests and members of St. Aidan's, Chinese United and Metropolitan groups who attended.

Mrs. Johansen, guest speaker, brought a message of inspiration and encouragement to the various groups. She outlined the extensive work accomplished in the missionary field by the United Churches in Canada, work in which the circles play an important part. The supper tables were decorated with Autumn flowers, and guests at the head table included: Mrs. Johansen; Mrs. Tong Yen, Chinese United; Mrs. R. Harris, Metropolitan; Mrs. G. G. Green, Fairfield United; Mrs. Wilson, Centennial; Mrs. E. King, Esquimalt United; Mrs. O. Butters, First United; Mrs. F. R. Jewkes, Oak Bay United; Mrs. A. Allison, Wilkinson Road; Mrs. H. A. McLeod, Mrs. M. L. McLennan, Miss M. Mitchell, Mrs. W. J. Graham, Victoria Presbyterial president; Mrs. A. T. Hunkin, Presbyterial secretary, and Miss P. Willows, deaconess of First United.

Mrs. Graham brought greetings from the Presbytery and Miss Barbara Dawson, of St. Aidan's, conducted the devotional, choosing for her theme, "Faith in Wartime." Miss Mary Bong, of the Chinese group, sang two solos, and Miss Marian Lowe, who accompanied her, also played two piano solos.

Miss Porter thanked Mrs. Johansen for her interesting message, also the girls who took part in the programme, and extended a special vote of thanks to Mrs. Hunkin who so ably assisted in making the rally a success.

Wyllie convened the refreshments, Mrs. H. Heslip, Mrs. W. Dabinette and Mrs. L. Jansch assisting with the serving. The individual tea tables were dainty with Fall chrysanthemums in shades of pink and yellow. Mrs. A. D. Aiken and Mrs. S. Chambers were in charge of the donations which included silver collection, linens, jams and pickles.

Mrs. T. McEwen was in charge of the contest, assisted by Mrs. De Harwood, the winner being Mr. A. McEwan.

Members are especially asked to note the October 21 meeting will be held in the new board room at the Chemainus Hospital at 2:30 o'clock in place of 3 o'clock, in order not to conflict with the I.O.D.E. Trafalgar tea.

HIDEOUS NAZI METHODS USED

Nazi torpedo or who were drowned in the waters of Cabot Strait. Sailors, soldiers and airmen are trained to meet and face danger; death, if necessary. We can be sure that they and the other men in the ship met death gallantly, but the killing of those women and children arouses our deepest feelings of pity—and of anger.

If there were any Canadians who did not realize that we were up against a ruthless and remorseless enemy, there can be no such Canadians now. If anything were needed to prove the hideousness of Nazi warfare, surely this is it. Canada can never forget the Ss. Caribou.

FOUR OF FAMILY

Details from the casualty lists will reveal distinct tragedies, but standing stark is that of John Tapper, able seaman, of the Royal Canadian Navy Reserve, and his family (of Grand Beach, Nfld.) John Tapper was one of those who lost his life. Listed in the official civilian casualty lists are these names: Mrs. Hazel Tapper, John W. Tapper, Lillian Tapper and Donald Tapper.

Nursing Sister Wilkie, of the Royal Canadian Navy (of Carman, Man.), was among those killed. She was the first of our nursing sisters to lose her life in this war and she died, in truth, in action. The navy and the Naval Nursing Service will treasure this young women's memory.

You don't have to offend!

A LEVER PRODUCT

You may be smarter than most, but if you have "B.O." you'll find it hard to make good.

No man or woman can afford to ignore this danger. We all must perspire every day in the year. Left on the body, perspiration grows stale, becomes offensive, soon causes "B.O."

A bath with just any soap won't do the trick. You need Lifebuoy—the ONE soap especially made to PREVENT "B.O."—to make you sure of lasting, ALL-OVER protection. No other popular soap contains Lifebuoy's special deodorizing ingredient.

Start now to bathe regularly with Lifebuoy. There is a ZIP and TANG to Lifebuoy's rich lather that makes you feel on "top of the world." And you're sure of real, lasting freshness. Use Lifebuoy for your face and hands, too. It's 20% MILDER than many so-called beauty and baby soaps.

UNEASY OVER EXPECTED PUSH

Jan Christian Smuts, the South African Premier, was connected with Allied plans to open a new offensive in North Africa in the early future.

LULL CONTINUES

The uneasy lull in Egypt continued, but there were indications that Rommel still was receiving reinforcements by air. A British communique today reported a Junkers-53 troop carrier was destroyed south of Crete.

Bomb-carrying Messerschmitts were used mainly against Malta yesterday in waves of up to sixty planes, but the defenders intercepted most of them well out at sea.

The bag of fourteen included five Junkers-88's, seven Messerschmitt-109's and two Macchi-202's. Numerous others were damaged severely in the five raids during which the R.A.F. lost but four planes, and only one pilot.

CONCERN INDICATED

Axis concern over the possibility of new British stabs from deep in the desert at Rommel's rear and lines of communication was indicated by an announcement that a German reconnaissance plane was forced down in the Kufra Oasis 500 miles south of the Mediterranean coast. Kufra is the base from which the Italians said desert forces raided Bengasi, Barce and Gialo Oasis in mid-September.

under Gen. Draja Mihailovic. The nearby mining towns of Kupres and Porcha on the south bank of the Drina River were reported practically destroyed with their important installations in artillery and tank battles between the patriots and Axis troops. The battles in the towns of 25,000 population were reported to have seesawed fifteen days in July. The big steel rolling plant at nearby Zenica, which was producing German arms, has been reported idle since the battle.

Rumania — The Swiss Telegraph Agency reported that the mayor of Bucharest, Gen. Foresco, killed himself last night for undisclosed reasons.

NAZI SAVAGERY REPORTED

Occupied Russia—Stories of Nazi savagery dwarfed the punitive measures in Western Europe. Russian reports said conditions imposed in German prison camps amounted to mass killings. The Moscow radio quoted excerpts from German newspapers, which reported that Latvian and Estonian peasants were forced to surrender their entire crops of grain and potatoes to the occupation army. Compulsory labor was introduced for all over ten years of age and those who refused to comply were deprived of food cards.

Croatia — German occupation troops were increased because of the failure of the puppet chief of state, Dr. Ante Pavelic, to enforce order. Dr. Vladimir Macek, the peasant party leader, was again reported arrested after several thousand of his followers revolted against Pavelic.

Greece — Turkish reports said some French naval technicians and dockworkers had been sent from France via Germany to Greece to restore docks near Athens, destroyed during the invasion. Greek labor was conscripted to work beside the French under supervision of German specialists.

SOVIET FORCES AT STALINGRAD RETREAT

northwest of the city, where a Red army offensive against the Nazi flank has been under way for weeks in an effort to ease the pressure on Stalingrad.

Two companies of Nazi infantry and 200 Rumanians were killed in that sector, and Red Army artillery was reported to have destroyed five tanks, four mortars, sixteen machine guns, two anti-tank guns and twenty-eight enemy blockhouses.

Indecisive but heavy fighting continued also in the Mozdok sector of the mid-Caucasus, where the Russians said they killed approximately 400 Germans and destroyed five tanks and an ammunition dump.

SIX HUNDRED SLAIN

On the only fronts mentioned the communique said 600 enemy troops were slain on the front west of Moscow "by our artillery reconnaissance units and snipers," and the Germans also suffered "many dead" in an unsuccessful attack on the northwestern or Leningrad front.

The critical situation at Stalingrad was stressed in dispatches which said the Germans were driving close to the Volga River on the eastern side of the ruined city.

With their backs to the river, the Russians fought resolutely to check the Nazi spearheads after an early-morning Red retreat through several streets of a workers' settlement.

The Russians reported that only superior numbers forced them back, but the critical turn in the fifty-third day of siege left the defenders with little room to manoeuvre in the skeleton ruins of the north part of the city.

GERMAN CLAIMS

The German communique claimed an armored division had pushed through to the Volga, taking the northern part of a factory suburb containing the large Dzerzhinsky tractor works. Nazi military spokesmen, however, were quoted by the German Transocean Agency as saying the Red Army "is continuing to fight as if nothing had happened." The same spokesmen said two other great factories nearby, the Red October and Red Barricade, were cut off, and that the Russians had made relief attacks to ease pressure on them. The High Command claimed further encirclement and destruction of Russian positions southeast of Novorossisk and the capture of mountain positions on the road to Tuapse.

In devastated Stalingrad, the Russians fought back seven German attacks before giving ground, destroying thirty-six tanks Thursday and sixteen planes, battlefront dispatches said.

Road of supply to China would not be long delayed.

The monsoon rains are ending and the season best suited to campaigning is at hand.

United Nations forces have made good use of the monsoon period. They have gone through rigorous training with light, highly mobile equipment.

The Japanese also have been utilizing the lull to strengthen their positions. But the British forces are counting on factors which were absent when they withdrew from Burma last May.

The United Nations air force cooperating with General Wavell's army is far greater than it was last Spring and includes many Flying Fortresses, which have proved their effectiveness in picking off small jungle targets in the daytime. Another advantage is a thorough understanding of the territory. Scouting parties for many weeks have been penetrating far past Japanese advance posts and have brought back valuable data.

Ground-swells usually occur along shallow coasts and often in fair weather.

CHAPTER XLVI

She didn't want to frighten him by telling him she was really sick and so she added: "I seem to be sort of low with a cold. When I feel better I'll try to write." And signed her name.

Later she gave the letter to Miss Bolton to mail.

When another week had gone by with no word from Paul, it came over her that for some reason he was deliberately not writing to her. At first she didn't want to believe it. Each morning at ten she would listen for the slam of the front door that would indicate that Mama Eckert was getting the mail.

If she later heard the stairs creak under Mama Eckert's tread she'd turn hot then cold. Then her heart would begin to pound madly as Mama Eckert came into the room.

"Did I get any mail today?" Amy would ask.

When Mama Eckert said "no," she'd lie still and cold for awhile.

Guy came in to see her for a few minutes every night. He was living in a downtown hotel apartment now and coming to the Eckerts each evening for his dinner and a few hours with his little daughter. After Daphne had gone to bed he'd come up to Amy's room with Mama Eckert.

He'd stand at the foot of her bed, slim, brown and graceful, and say with his slow smile: "Here's an African violet plant. It seems to have lost its odor somewhere, but it looks warm and soft and fuzzy. The colored woman around the corner's selling them."

The presents he brought her were not a rich man's gifts. They were, rather, little things that showed special thought.

Marcia came too, after Amy had been sick for over a week. She brought a big sheaf of yellow roses.

"I'd have been in sooner, but I'm taking a course in first aid and working in a Red Cross sewing room. I'll make up for my absence by staying longer if you'll let me. I brought Paul's latest letter. Of course you know he's in camp now."

Amy's lips formed the word "no," but no sound came.

Marcia was not aware of that. She had taken from her handbag a letter. She read excerpts here and there. The letter was full of extraneous information. It did not sound like Paul. He was not far from his cabin and although he could not take the trip, he liked the feeling of being so near. He had gained weight a little. He was well. The arms food was good. There was a good library in the camp. He enjoyed the wrestling matches. He was, thus far, "a bum shot," but he was improving. He liked to march, loved the rhythm of it.

"Yesterday," Marcia read, "we marched through a woods. There was a tang of frost in the air. There was silver frost on all the curled brown leaves at our feet. I longed to kick and scuff through those leaves, but was afraid it might give the impression that I was goose-stepping. There were glossy green holly trees with red berries and mistletoe vines with white berries.

"We sang. I even lifted my pseudo baritone in a Christmas carol. And speaking of Christmas—don't come to see me. I don't want anyone to come to see me just now. Emphatically! Sometime I shall explain. Leave it at that now. I'm afraid you were right when you—"

Marcia broke off self-consciously. "I didn't mean to read that. It's—well, sometime I'll tell you. Why, Amy, you look sick. Did I tire you?"

Amy was lying, with eyes closed very tightly so that the tears could not escape. Guy came in then and Marcia said remorsefully: "Oh I talked too long! I tired her out!"

Guy laughed gently, and said, "You haven't tired her. She's just tired of lying here. Let's take her downstairs. You help her get ready and then call me."

Marcia helped her into the gold negligee, the one with the turquoise-studded belt that she had intended should be part of her trousseau. Then Guy came in and said, "Now I'll carry you downstairs."

Amy shook her head and started for the door, but before she got there she wobbled and had to catch the corner of the bureau for support. He was at her side in an instant and had gathered her up in his arms.

She was surprised at the ease with which he carried her, so strongly yet lightly. She felt suddenly at peace, so soothed and relaxed that as they neared the bottom of the stairs her head drooped against his shoulder.

She lifted it quickly. But he gathered her suddenly close to him and for the barest instant laid his cheek against hers.

Then she felt his shoulders stiffen and he said abruptly, "Forgive me, Amy!"

Quickly he pushed the door open and carried her into the living-room and deposited her in a big chair beside Papa Eckert.

SOLOMONS FIGHT CAUSING ANXIETY

Guadalcanal on Tuesday night and bombarded the airfield and shore installations and early the next morning landed troops from transports on the north coast.

One unofficial estimate suggested the Japanese have increased their forces from 7,000, when the marines occupied the airfield, to at least 12,000.

BASE ATTACKED

A second landing by the Japanese was accomplished yesterday and, at the same time, the American base at Espiritu Santo Island in the New Hebrides was attacked. Meanwhile, the Guadalcanal airport was attacked several times by Japanese bombers and a steady toll of Japanese aircraft exacted.

The recent whereabouts of the American sea units in the Solomons area has not been indicated in navy communiques and nothing has been reported since the Sunday night engagement.

The navy also reported today that a large group of enemy ships had been sighted near Shortland Islands in the Northwestern Solomons, in addition to the various units of transports and warships which have been pouring men ashore and shelling the American emplacements on Guadalcanal.

Details of the bitter ground fighting were lacking, however, and there was no indication that the Japanese, although heavily reinforced with troops and equipment, had succeeded thus far in forcing the marines out of any of the territory they had occupied.

The temperature of the sun's core has been computed at 25,700,000 degrees Centigrade.

From New Comedy Show

Burned up! And who wouldn't be? Franchot Tone is giving Allyn Joslyn something else to think about in this scene from Columbia's hilarious new comedy, "The Wife Takes a Flyer," now at the Dominion Theatre. Joan Bennett, Tone's co-star and "the wife" in the case, doesn't seem to be interested.

At the Theatres

ATLAS THEATRE Dorothy Lamour returns in a sarong role with a new jungle sweetheart, handsome Richard Denning, in "Beyond the Blue Horizon," which will end tonight at the Atlas Theatre. Combining thrills, romance and comedy, the new Paramount film in Technicolor has a supporting cast which includes Jack Haley, Patricia Morison, Walter Abel, Helen Gilbert and Elizabeth Patterson.

OAK BAY AND PLAZA THEATRES There are many who thought Abbott and Costello could not keep up the comedy pace they set in "Buck Privates," "In the Navy," "Keep Em Flying" and their other successive hits, but the nation's two foremost screwball comics have done it again, on a bigger and even balmier scale in their latest picture, "Pardon My Sarong," which will end tonight at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres.

YORK THEATRE Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck are the co-stars in Samuel Goldwyn's "Ball of Fire," which will end tonight at the York Theatre. Bizarre romance flames between a scholarly author of encyclopedias and a hotsy-totsy dancer. They manage to teach each other a lot about love which, strangely enough, neither knew before.

CADET THEATRE The exciting adventures of a Free French flyer in the R.A.F., after he and four of his squadron are shot down in Nazi-occupied France, provide nerve - gripping drama in "Joan of Paris," co-starring Michele Morgan and Paul Henreid. In the picture which ends tonight at the Cadet Theatre, Henreid is cast as the De Gaulle aviator, while Miss Morgan portrays a Parisian barmaid, whose undying love for him inspires her to pay the supreme price that he may escape the dread Gestapo.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

What Today Means

"LIBRA"

If October 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., from 2:15 to 4:15 p.m. and from 8:15 to 10:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:15 to 10:15 a.m., from 6:15 to 8:15 p.m. and from 10:15 p.m. until midnight.

Innovations may be responsible for many agreeable surprises on October 17, so do not turn thumbs down on any suggested without due deliberation. Avoid inquisitorial questioning on this date if you do not wish to arouse the ire of those you question. Sheer laziness will cause many people to leave their minds unoccupied at times when they should be used to do constructive thinking, so endeavor to keep yours well occupied. With little effort you can be as amusing and entertaining in your own home as outside it, and the chances are that your results will be worth the endeavor. Married and engaged couples, as well as those whose betrothal is but a question of time, will do well to select congenial topics for conversation and avoid argumentative ones on this day if it is their desire to make the day enjoyable.

If you are a woman and October 17 is your birthday, never indulge in tolerance or bigotry, for such narrow-mindedness may cause you to lose much. You may be much happier if you value your possessions for their sentimental rather than their material worth. If you form the habit of anticipating good rather than evil, you are liable to attract much of it to you. Your efforts in missionary, social welfare or publicity work, as well as in writing, teaching, singing, painting, trained nursing or business management, should present you with unlimited opportunities to win recognition and make money. It seems logical that your marriage should help you to achieve the ultimate in happiness.

The child born on October 17 generally responds to kindness but rebels at harshness. Respect for parental authority should be instilled in this youngster at an early age. The strength of character developed by Libra children frequently helps them to become leaders in their chosen activities.

If you are a man and October 17 is your natal day, you have far more to gain through self-denial than through self-indulgence. As a shipbuilder, contractor, manufacturer, author, publisher, news reporter, actor, sales agent, or active participant in the war, you should have ample reason to be proud of your accomplishment.

WHY DO WE CALL IT THURSDAY?

The next time you hear thunder, stop, look and listen carefully.

If you concentrate hard enough, you may be able to distinguish the roars of a gargantuan chariot.

Gaze aloft.

If you have what Dali calls the mediumistic faculty or the paranoiac mind, you will be able to make out plainly the mammoth he-goats drawing the gigantic vehicle, and the colossal Nordic god in the driver's seat.

That is the way the Anglo-Saxons saw and heard it, observed the benevolent friend and protector of men, Thunor or Thor holding the enormous reins, cracking the heavens and causing them to reverberate every time he swung his magic hammer, Mjollnir.

So, after him, they named the fifth day of the week Thunres daeg, that is, day of thunder, Thor's day or Thursday.

FINANCE - COMMERCE - MARKETS

Selected Stocks Holding Ground On Wall Street

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP).—Selected stocks dug in for recovery in today's market, but many leaders exhibited little interest in the proceedings.

Some buying was attributed to the feeling the substantial two-day reaction had served as a fairly good correction of the lengthy advance and that the list was in a healthier technical condition. Bullish restraints, however, were seen in war news from Stalingrad and the lack of definite information regarding the big battle of the Solomons.

Selling dried up at the start. Steels soon began to attract bids and modest gains cropped up in other departments. While there were scattered plus marks of 1 to 3 points at the close, fractional variations were the rule and declines were plentiful.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was up .2 of a point at 39.6. Dealings were relatively sluggish throughout. Transfers of 504,890 shares compared with 596,370 the day before and 1,054,470 last Friday. The day's volume was the smallest for five hours since October 1.

U.S. Steel and Bethlehem backed away from the best and finished up 1-4 each. Moderately higher were Standard Oil of New Jersey, General Motors and U.S. Rubber.

American Telephone cut an early loss of more than a point at 1-4.

WHAT'S DOING ON THE LOCAL RETAIL PRODUCE MARKET

Something new appeared on the row yesterday with the arrival of a shipment of Ribier grapes from the Okanagan. Ribiers generally come from California. The first Muscat grapes of the season were among consignments yesterday.

A car of bananas arrived from Los Angeles yesterday, ripe and ready for sale. Two shipments of oranges and lemons are due today, their prices remaining high. A few Concord grapes are also expected today, and another shipment next week, after which they will be finished.

Wholesalers state sweet potatoes will be cheaper on vegetable row next week. Eggs are very scarce.

After the week-end guest had departed, the hostess was tidying up.

"There," she exclaimed in disgust, "I knew that friend of yours wasn't to be trusted. I've just counted the towels and one of them is missing."

"Was it a good one?" asked hubby anxiously.

"The best we had! It was the one with 'Grand Palace Hotel' woven in it."

HIS WORD IS GOOD

The customer was obviously very angry as he strode into the watch-repairer's shop.

"Look here!" he shouted. "I brought my watch here a month ago, and it's not mended yet."

"Well, sir," said the other soothingly, "we're short-handed and spare parts are hard to get. Remember there's a war on!"

To the customer that was the last straw.

"I know all about that!" he raved. "But you have the impudence to display a notice in your window that watches will be repaired while you wait."

With a beaming smile, the watchmaker retorted:

"Well, you are waiting, aren't you?"

That Body of Yours

by JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

ADVANTAGES OF DRIED PLASMA FOR BLOOD TRANSFUSION

For many years the lives of patients suffering from shock and loss of blood were saved by injecting into their veins blood obtained from individuals whose blood matched that of the patient. The delay in obtaining the individual to give his blood was sometimes fatal and so hospitals began, and still do, to store the blood according to type, for use in an emergency. It was later discovered that the use of the liquid part of the blood of any type could be used.

Recently it has been found that the plasma of the blood, when dried, is likewise effective and can be stored away just as can the blood itself and used in an emergency by adding the ordinary salt solution to it. Plasma is the liquid part of the blood which carries the corpuscles.

In Annals of Internal Medicine, Drs. E. E. Muirhead and J. M. Hill, Dallas, Texas, state the importance of producing a large volume of dried plasma and report the results they have obtained from using it in 276 cases in the regular or routine hospital service during twenty-one months. A total of 674 doses of four times concentrated plasma (small and large doses) were given. Only five reactions occurred from these injections. All these reactions were of the kind where the temperature rises.

The disorders for which the plasma was given were shock, prevention of shock, burns, head injuries, allergic symptoms due to eating protein, swelling of the tissues and other conditions.

"The main emphasis in the treatment of shock is to restore the full amount of the blood to the circulation. Prevention of exposure, warm surroundings, and the giving of oxygen are of additional value," wrote Drs. Muirhead and Hill.

It readily can be seen how valuable this dried plasma is going to be in wartime, when the transportation of stored blood would be inadvisable if not impossible.

Also, it is possible to obtain mass production of dried plasma. This will be of great help in our civilian hospitals when blood doners are not available, and also where stored blood is not always available.

TURN ABOUT

Meeting the village "black sheep" in an advanced state of intoxication, the kind old vicar said sadly:

"Oh, Robert, and the last time I met you, you made me so happy because you were sober. Now you make me unhappy because you have been drinking."

"Tha's right, sor," replied Robert, beaming. "Today it's my turn to be h-hic-happy."

PLANNING TWO NEW HIGHWAYS

Forestry Service Project to Open Huge Area in Island's Hinterland

VANCOUVER, Oct. 16 (CP). — A Winter work programme for Vancouver Island, which calls for construction of two new coast-to-coast highways and the opening of a vast [illegible] zies Bay, has been mapped by the British Columbia Forest Service, forestry officials announced here yesterday.

They said much of the work would be done by Mennonites who are serving in work camps in lieu of military service.

Main projects planned in the programme include:

Completion of an alternative route to Alberni from a point near Little Qualicum River on the east coast.

Continuation of the present Koksilah Road in the Cowichan district across the island to Port Renfrew on the west coast.

Extension of the Menzies Bay road to Salmon River in the north.

Grading and improving of abandoned logging railways to provide a branch road from Horne Lake up the scenic Bighorn Valley of the island interior and out to the east coast near Bowser.

OPEN NEW AREA

The possibility of setting aside an extensive area at the north end of Horne Lake as a provincial park and of establishing a game preserve in the sector through which the Menzies Bay-Salmon River road will run are under discussion, forestry officials said.

During the depression, relief crews working under Forestry Department supervision made a start on construction of the Koksilah-Port Renfrew road.

A dirt road already runs from the east coast to Horne Lake and this Winter Mennonite crews will use old logging grades to carry the road on around the lake's rim to the island's central trough and from there to the head of Alberni Canal. Another road, branching off at Horne Lake, will follow the Bighorn Valley and the Rosewell Creek basin to emerge on the east coast.

Extension of the Menzies Bay road to Salmon River will complete the final link in a motor trail leading from the extreme south of the island to the edge of the virgin timber line in the north.

Dinner was a little late, so the hostess played the piano. She finished but there was still an interval of waiting. In the ambarrassing silence, she turned to one of the waiting guests and asked, "Mr. Mason, would you like a sonata before dinner?" The gentleman gave a start of surprise and pleasure. "Why yes, thank you, I had a couple on my way here, but I think I could stand another."

CHARGES ACTOR ATTACKED GIRL

Errol Flynn Surrenders After Complaint Issued by District Attorney in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16 (AP).—Errol Flynn, swashbuckling film star, surrendered today on a charge of attacking a seventeen-year-old girl at a party and was released under $1,000 bail.

"I'm bewildered," he told reporters. "I can't understand it. I hardly touched the girl."

The complaint, issued by District Attorney John F. Dockweiler, after the County Grand Jury had failed to indict Flynn yesterday, charged him with assaulting Betty Hansen, seventeen, at the Bel Air mansion of Fred McEvoy, wealthy British sportsman and former Olympic bobsled champion, on the night of September 27.

She had come here recently from Lincoln, Neb., to live with a sister, Mrs. Jack Marsden.

"It is obvious," said Dockweiler, "that the grand jurors have not considered the evidence, for, from a study of it, I am convinced that this is as airtight a case of its kind as ever has been presented to my office."

Similarly charged and also released on bail were three employees of the studio where Flynn is under contract: Armand Knapp, eighteen; Morrie Black, twenty-two, and Joseph Geraldi, twenty. Dockweiler said they had confessed attacking the Hansen girl after the night of the party.

1126 Pandora Avenue, Victoria, B.C.

Comment: You have something in your letter, Mr. Slang. The younger players certainly had a tough time this past season. Teams of the second division were playing on pastures throughout their schedule, but blame that onto the City Parks Board. It didn't make a move to try and help the boys out. I howled at the board all summer but I might just as well been talking to a stonewall for it didn't pay any attention. It took me more than a year to get the board to dig up Central Park and turn it into a decent field, and then somebody else came along and took credit for it. When you ask me about where the profits went to from the successful season, well, that's easy to explain. All the senior clubs got an equal cut and what was left over went into the bank. The books are available at any time and if you want to see them just communicate with Sid Thomas at this sports department anytime next week. At the present time he and his wife are holidaying on the Mainland.

Star in Air Force Togs on Rugby Field

EDDY THOMPSON — DON CROWE — PAUL McGARRY

Here are three of the crack pigskin artists gathered together by Flying Officer Lew Hayman to wear the Rugby uniform of the Royal Canadian Air Force in O.R.F.U. competition. The Flyers have shown that they are a mighty football force, perhaps one of the best squads put together in the East for many seasons. These boys are among the best. Thompson is the former Balmy Beach kicking, running and passing star and captain. Don Crowe made a name for himself with Peterborough Orfuns, also in the backfield, and McGarry was a standout lineman and plunger with Ottawa Rough Riders before joining the R.C.A.F.

Two Football Matches Carded on the Local Grounds

TODAY'S feature match in the First Division of Victoria and District Football League will be between the Victoria Machinery Depot and the Royal Air Force at the Royal Athletic Park at 2:30 with McKinstry handling the whistle. Another fixture will be staged at Heywood Avenue with the Navy taking on the Army and Dave McMillan will be in charge. Both kick-offs are scheduled for 2:30. The shipbuilders will be fielding a strong eleven against the Flyers in the main attraction at the Caledonia Avenue enclosure, and therefore a good crowd is expected to watch the squads in action, due to the fact that a flock of ex-Old Country professionals will be clashing with the best V.M.D. have on hand at the present time.

Health of Canadian Flyers Is Excellent

Airmen of the R.C.A.F. on Duty in Alaska Kept Busy Preparing Stations Before Rugged Aleutian Winter Sets In

By EDWIN JOHNSON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN ALASKA, Oct. 16 (CP).—Despite prevailing fog billowing in from the broad Pacific, and sudden, extreme changes in temperature, the health of Canadian troops serving in Alaska is declared to be "excellent" by medical men attached to the forces in the rugged Northwest.

A visit to the sick bays and hospitals at some of the larger Canadian-manned camps confirmed this. In one fifty-bed hospital operated by the United States Army Medical Corps, Canadians occupied about half a dozen cots. Some were under observation for tonsilitis or common colds. A few others were recovering from injuries suffered in the course of duty. The disability roll was much the same at other posts.

"We have had very little sickness and hospitalization certainly has been below the average for a similar community of civilians," said Flight Lieutenant H. Cooper, of Vancouver, medical officer at one of the R.C.A.F. stations.

"I should say the boys have been far too busy to let illness gain the upper hand," he added. "We are keeping our fingers crossed, however, for the men have yet to weather an Alaskan Winter."

HIVE OF INDUSTRY

And when Medical Officer Cooper said the men had been busy he wasn't fooling. Every camp is a hive of industry. Gangs labor from early morning far into the night erecting defences, finishing off runways laid over muskeg or scrubby terrain by civilians drawing anywhere from $12 to $40 a day. They dig drainage ditches, lay miles of cat-walk over the marshy camp sites, rush up prefabricated huts overnight and put in their spell of training for good measure.

During a two-day period of midsummerlike weather I saw officers and other ranks stripped to the waist, working side by side on these jobs that must be completed before Winter sets in. In the advance areas, where team play is stressed, rank and formality are thrust aside except on special occasions.

"But what do the boys do for relaxation and recreation?" I asked A.C.1 Fred Meier, of Leader, Sask.

"Like so many of the other fellows I get my relaxation right on the job," he replied. "The time seems to go so much faster."

Without exception all ranks admitted washing clothes was the toughest chore they had to tackle. But at one station an enterprising group pooled its resources and purchased an electric washing machine—now the most popular bit of equipment in camp.

Hon. Squadron Leader Lionel Conacher, on a tour of the camps to ascertain the recreational needs of the men, deplored the lack of facilities to provide the necessary diversions in off-duty hours. He said sports equipment would be dispatched to the various stations at the earliest opportunity, but recreation buildings were sorely needed, especially for the men in the more isolated regions.

FISHING IS GOOD

Many of the boys have discovered that Alaska is also a fisherman's paradise. At the height of the recent salmon run several fishing parties were organized by those on short leave and the day I arrived at a certain camp 175 salmon, ranging in weight from five to twenty-five pounds, were hauled in.

The prize catch went to Squadron Leader L. Luke, of North Bay, Ont., and Flight Lieutenant V. G. Stavrakov, of Victoria, B.C., who between them landed thirty-five. Singer of Russian folk songs in the camp's troupe of entertainers, Stavrakov is no stranger to the North. He served as assistant chief engineer with the Wilkins North Pole Expedition in the Summer of 1931.

But what the men yearn for more than anything else is a steady flow of letters from home and fourteen days' leave, which for most of them rolls around far too slowly. And to reach "outside" is a problem in itself. At one station I saw a leave-taking group crowd into the after-end of a heavily freighted communications boat, singing, laughing and joking, although exposed to cold wind, squalls and spray for the eleven-hour trip to the Mainland.

LEAGUE TALKS ILLUMINATING

Commander Beard Returns From Dominion Council Meeting

Back from the annual meeting of the Dominion Council, Navy League of Canada, which was held in Montreal yesterday, Commander C. T. Beard, R.C.N. (retired), yesterday spoke enthusiastically of what had been accomplished in the Quebec city. Devoted to discussions and business concerning the welfare of all sailors, but of merchant seamen especially, the extent of the league's activities, which now involve a million dollars a year, was a revelation to Commander Beard, who is president of the Victoria and Island Division of the Navy League.

COM. C. T. BEARD

The greater part of the league's endeavors have been confined in the past to the East Coast, where the convoys are made up and hundreds of destitute seamen come ashore after their ships have been sunk.

Assistance was promised Commander Beard stated, by the Dominion Council for certain local needs of the league, and it was decided to go ahead with two hostel establishments at Vancouver—one for the entertainment of merchant seamen and the other for junior officers.

Arthur Randles, director of merchant seamen, Ottawa, attended the conference, which continued for five days, and he praised the work of the Navy League on behalf of the men who man the ships of the Allied merchant navies.

FIGHTERS ABOARD FREIGHTER

THIS Hurricane fighter being swung aboard an Allied merchantman belongs to the M.S.F.U.—the initials which mean Merchant Service Fighter Unit and which spell out hearty opposition for any of Germany's long-range bombers which seek to attack the convoy of which the ship will be a part. The Hurricane is loaded on its catapult, as shown, and the ship carries a fighter pilot and a small staff of maintenance men. When the Hurricane has accomplished its mission of fighting off air attackers, the pilot bails out and abandons his craft, since no gear for recovering the machine is carried. The pilot takes his chance of being picked out of the water.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Oct. 16 (CP).—For four days, three members of the Royal Air Force from No. 35 Service Flying Training School at North Battleford, had only chewing gum for nourishment after they made a crash-landing in Northern Saskatchewan.

The men—P.O. J. Tomalin, of London, Eng.; L.A.C. Roy Parsons, Richmond, Eng., and L.A.C. E. B. Tutty, of West Kirby, Eng.—arrived here last night from Big River, Sask.

They had ripped the compass from the control board of their damaged plane, and with it for a guide, headed south from the crash scene to Big River, a distance of fifty miles.

The airmen traveled single file through the dense bush country. They had only muskeg water to drink, and at night used their parachutes to sleep in.

They left the school at Battleford on a routine flight last Saturday, in an Oxford training plane. Forced off their course, darkness was closing in when a landing was made in muskeg between two lakes.

During their journey through the bush the men saw many rabbits, but had no way of killing them. There also were many berries, but they were afraid to eat them for fear of poison.

Wednesday morning the airmen reached the cabin of John Nelson, a fisherman. He took them farther south to a trapper's cabin where they were fed, and then taken to Delaronde Lake, where the Department of Natural Resources has an outpost radio station. Fred Redhead, field officer, advised authorities of their safety yesterday.

After a thirty-five-mile canoe trip down the lake the air force men were picked up by an R.C.A.F. car and brought here. Their boots were worn almost through and their clothes were badly torn from their trek through the woods. Tutty was the only one to suffer injury in the crash. He has a fractured rib. The men said the plane turned over in making the forced landing.

COAL BARGE UNLOADERS WANT WAGE ADJUSTMENT

Chinese workers who have been engaged in unloading coal barges for the Victoria Tug Company refuse to continue until some definite action is taken with respect to the wages they claim they are entitled to, W. W. McGregor, of the towing company, stated yesterday.

At the present time, only one loaded barge is held up because of the workers' attitude; but others are due in the course of the next few days, when several thousand tons of coal are expected to arrive.

Faced with a shortage of suitable labor, it is probable that a coal famine locally will result unless the problem of unloading the barges is not settled soon, Mr. McGregor concluded.

FISH PACKER ASHORE

VANCOUVER, Oct. 16 (CP).—The fish packer Algie, owned by British Columbia Packers, Limited, was expected to be refloated at high tide today from a sandbar off the Fraser River's mouth, where she ran aground last night. The packer was laden to the marks with dog salmon caught off the west coast of Vancouver Island, but half her load was taken off by scows to lighten her.

"AMONG BEST FIRES SEEN"

Night Raid on Cologne by Canadian Flyers Started Great Conflagration

LONDON, Oct. 16 (CP).—Crews of four R.C.A.F. squadrons who took part in last night's R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. attack on Cologne reported today that great fires were visible for a long time after they left the target area. Some blazes could be seen almost from the Netherlands coast by the returning bombers.

Early arrivals over the Ruhrland encountered little opposition from anti-aircraft or searchlights, and Sgt. A. H. Taylor, twenty-nine-year-old miner from Kirkland Lake, Ont., who is a rear-gunner in a Wellington, said: "I think they were caught asleep."

His machine went in between two groups of fires, dropping bombs which Taylor saw start two new fires.

Concentrated fires were reported by later arrivals. P.O. Lloyd Parnall, twenty-seven-year-old insurance man from Lakefield, Ont., described them as "among the best fires I've ever seen."

Sgt. Robert Williston, bomb-aimer, formerly a clerk at Edmonton, said he dropped his missiles between two lines of fire. The rear-gunner of this Wellington, Sgt. J. Aitken, twenty, a student from Imperial, Sask., saw two 4,000-pounders burst in the target area. He said the "flashes were ruddy, then two big red blobs seemed to grow out of built-up areas where they fell about 500 yards from each other."

W.O. S. F. Gannon, of Montreal, second pilot in a Halifax bomber, described the scene over the target as a "beautiful picture" and said there had been heavy activity in a thirty-mile ring. The trip was "okay," he said simply.

WIFE LIVES HERE

The captain of Gannon's aircraft was Flt. Sgt. Matt Dagget, of Salmon Arm, B.C., whose wife lives in Victoria.

This aircraft encountered four enemy fighters, but were attacked "only twice," Thomas said. Daggett found it the worst trip he had had for night fighters and he praised the ability of Carleton, who, he said, did one of his best jobs in navigating the Halifax to and from the target.

The raid was the second trip for a crew of which P.O. W. A. G. Hardy, of Windsor, Ont., was navigator. His mates included Sgt. R. M. Reilley, of Montreal, as bomb aimer, and Sgt. G. K. Collory, of Frobisher, Sask., as flight engineer.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 16.—Important changes in the operations personnel of Trans-Canada Air Lines are announced today by R. F. George, operations manager, and approved by O. T. Larson, vice-president. E. P. "Billy" Wells, formerly assistant superintendent, Winnipeg, will be assistant to the operations manager, Winnipeg. Captain B. A. Rawson, formerly assistant operations superintendent, Toronto, will be superintendent of flight operations, Winnipeg. Captain J. H. Sandgathe, formerly chief pilot, Winnipeg, moves west to familiar territory as chief pilot at Lethbridge, and in addition to main line operation will have flying supervision over the Lethbridge-Edmonton service.

Captain Frank Young, formerly captain in regular flying service, Toronto, becomes chief pilot, Toronto. E. T. Howe, formerly chief clerk, Winnipeg, becomes supervisor of cargo service, Winnipeg.

C. R. Williams, formerly dispatcher, Winnipeg, becomes chief dispatcher, Winnipeg. N. J. Humphries, formerly dispatcher, Lethbridge, becomes chief dispatcher at Toronto. E. P. Wells has long been identified with flying in Canada and was a member of the Royal Air Force. He was born at Seaford, Sussex, England, in 1901. In the middle twenties he was awarded the D.F.M. for outstanding work in Iraq. He joined the T.C.A. on September 1, 1937, and in 1938 piloted the first mail plane operated by T.C.A. between Vancouver and Seattle.

Captain B. A. Rawson, better known as "Barney," was born in Fort William, Ont., in 1907. He got his first practical flying experience with the Dungan Airways and Huffman Company in Europe. He returned to Canada to continue his aviation activities. He came to Winnipeg and joined T.C.A. on April 25, 1938. Captain J. H. Sandgathe is a real Westerner and was born at Steveville, Alta., in 1911. He was educated in Calgary and started flying in 1930 with the Calgary Flying Club and later Great West Airways. The Western Prairies and the Canadian Rockies are familiar to him as he finds himself back on his old stamping grounds. He joined T.C.A. on November 30, 1937.

Captain Frank Young is a Torontonian and was born in that city in 1909. He commenced flying in 1929 with various flying clubs and later joined Dominion Skyways. He joined T.C.A. on January 3, 1938.

Your Health and Your Weight
Why Many Put on Extra Weight at Thirty
By JAS. W. BARTON, M.D.

Physicians are finding that it is the thin wiry type of individual past middle age who not only has a longer life span to which to look forward but he is more free from heart strokes—coronary thrombosis—and brain strokes—apoplexy, as young as thirty?

Why do men and women allow themselves to get overweight even

By the time they reach thirty they have established certain eating habits—kinds and amounts of foods—and they follow these habits into the thirties forgetting that two things have happened to them.

First, they have stopped growing; they have become mature men and women, and there will be no further growth of bones and no increase in the size of many parts and organs.

Second, they have stopped indulging in many of the forms of exercise of their younger days—dancing, skating, rowing and other pastimes.

When they were young they had a healthy, well-developed appetite and are usually in a position to pick and choose the foods they eat, they eat more of the rich forms of food—fats and starches.

It is not hard to see that if they continue to use their well-developed appetites and also eat more foods, yet do not indulge in as much exercise as formerly, one thing is bound to happen to the average healthy individual. He will put on extra fat, extra weight.

The fact that there is this increase in weight at the age of thirty when less exercise is taken is a sign that the individual is in normal health, that his body does not waste unneeded food but stores it away on and in the body as fat.

A man or woman in their thirties, eating and sleeping well but taking less exercise than before they were thirty can increase in weight so easily that at first he or she is not concerned about it because, in the majority, this extra weight often rounds out the figure and face and they are really more attractive in appearance. The extra weight is often welcomed by the individual who was thin or underweight up to the age of thirty.

However, insurance companies and health experts have been warning us for years that excess weight after thirty, and more particularly after forty, has not only many disadvantages but is really a menace to health and to life itself.

I have spoken before of the disadvantages of overweight — more danger in surgical operations, more likely to acquire infection, more liable to kidney, heart, liver and blood vessel disturbances, and diabetes. In fact, it is an advantage to be actually under normal weight once we are at or near middle age.

The United States Public Health Service, in their bulletins, state that at any age it is a disadvantage to be greatly overweight, but being "slightly" overweight up to the age of thirty might be considered an advantage.

I have given the figures more than once showing how much higher is the death rate in overweights than in those of normal weight or underweight, also how much more likely the overweight is to be stricken with heart disease, blood vessel disease, apoplexy and diabetes.

Two of the commonest ailments that are striking down middle-aged men and women more than at any previous time are brain stroke and heart stroke. These diseases are both due to damaged blood vessels, damaged most often by infection and strain. One form of strain on the blood vessels is the extra work put on them by excess fat on and in the body.

Accompanied by his son, Sandy entered a tavern, where he handed over a jar and asked for it to be filled with whisky.

When this had been done he found he'd left all his money at home. So, with a cynical smile, the landlord poured out the whisky.

"That wis an' awfu' peety," said the son when they were plodding home again.

"Wheesht, son," replied Sandy warmly; "just wait till we get hame an' ye see me squeezing out the sponge."

U.S. MARINES ARRIVE TODAY

Famous Fighting Men Will Head Victoria Parade This Afternoon

At half past two today, with a large detachment of United States Marines in the van, Victoria's Victory Loan parade of the services will move off from the corner of Douglas Avenue and Douglas Street, and after marching along Douglas to Belleville will be reviewed by Premier John Hart from a saluting base in front of the Empress Hotel. Major-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., G.O.C.-in-Chief, Pacific Command, with a suite of senior officers from each of the services, will also take post at the saluting base, where space has been reserved for local civic and church dignitaries.

Navy, army and air force bands will be spotted through the entire length of the parade which, for the first time, will include the women's divisions of the services. The beat of the drum and the stirring music of the brass and pipes will be sustained by the whirr and drone of propellers as a sweep of Royal Canadian Air Force bombers and fighters give an exhibition of war manoeuvres and drop leaflets and coupons with War Savings Stamp exchange value.

FLOATS TO BE INCLUDED

Spectacular floats illustrating the activities of the various arms, mobile fighting equipment and both offensive and defensive armaments will make interesting and informative displays. Canada's women in the services will be honored by the C.W.A.C. and flights of Royal Canadian Air Force women, who will march under their own officers.

Following the march past, Hon. H. H. Perry, Minister of Education, will, from the saluting base, make a dedication of the third Victory Loan flag, which will be unfurled on the Causeway by Mrs. J. Quinn. Members of the I.O.D.E., with their standards, will attend Mrs. Quinn, and the flag will also be honored by a guard of twenty men from each of the services under command of a naval officer.

Parade Marshal R. P. Ponder, who has been charged with the organization of this spectacular event, suggests that all those who wish to [illegible] the limitations of public transport and take their positions early.

Salmon Arm By-Election to Be Held on Nov. 25

Premier John Hart yesterday announced that the by-election in the Salmon Arm riding, made necessary through the death of Hon. Rolf Bruhn, will be held on November 25. The announcement followed a meeting of the Executive Council.

The final date for receiving nominations will be November 17 and, since the list of voters' must close sixteen days before nomination day, the final date upon which citizens may register will be October 31.

The returning officer in the by-election will be Henry T. Greenwood, who officiated in the last election.

Mayor C. Thomson will run under the banner of the Coalition Government, having been nominated some days ago at a joint convention of Liberals and Conservatives.

A type of mole that is blind, deaf and dumb exists in Australia.
